RETURNS FROM THE DIOCESES OF

[illegible]

Whitehall, 23d April 1819.

MY LORD,

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCE REGENT having been pleased, in the name and on the behalf of His Majesty, to comply with the prayer of an humble Address presented to His Royal Highness, in pursuance of a Resolution of the House of Commons of the 2d inst. praying that His Royal Highness "will be graciously pleased to direct an Inquiry to be instituted into the present state of the Established Church in Ireland, by a communication with the Archbishops and Bishops of that part of the United Kingdom, similar in its nature and details with the Inquiry instituted by command of His Majesty in June 1806, and of which Inquiry a full Report was, by His Majesty's gracious direction, presented to both Houses of Parliament in July 1807; in order that, by an accurate comparison of the results of such Inquiries, it may be learned how far the recommendations contained in the former Report have been acted upon and proved effectual, for realizing His Majesty's benevolent and paternal intentions for the protection and support of the Established Church of that part of the United Kingdom; and particularly for securing to the people of Ireland the beneficial influence of the precept and example of an universally resident body of Parochial Clergy;"—

I am accordingly to desire, that your Excellency will take the necessary measures for carrying the prayer of the said Address into effect; and that your Excellency will be pleased to report the result thereof, for the information of the House of Commons.

I am, with the greatest truth and regard, &c.

(Signed)

SIDMOUTH.

His Excellency,
The Lord Lieutenant,
&c. &c. &c.

Dublin Castle, 30 April 1819.

MY LORD,

I HAVE the honour to transmit to your Grace, a copy of a letter which I have received from Lord SIMONDS, signifying that His Royal Highness The Prince Regent has been pleased, in the name and on the behalf of His Majesty, to comply with the prayer of an humble Address presented to His Royal Highness, in pursuance of a Resolution of the House of Commons, praying that His Royal Highness would be graciously pleased to direct an Inquiry to be instituted into the present state of the Established Church in Ireland, similar in its nature and details with the Inquiry instituted by command of His Majesty in June 1806; and desiring that I will take the necessary measures for carrying the prayer of the said Address into effect.

And I request your Grace will transmit to me, with as little delay as possible, the most accurate accounts that can be furnished of the actual situation of the Established Church of Ireland; and I inclose a List of Queries, the same as those which were prepared in 1806, to be submitted to the several Bishops within your Grace's province accordingly.

I have, &c.

(Signed)

TALBOT.

To His Grace,
The Primate of all Ireland,
&c. &c. &c.

QUERIES

TO BE ADDRESSED BY THE SEVERAL ARCHBISHOPS OF IRELAND, TO THE BISHOPS IN THEIR RESPECTIVE PROVINCES.

I.

- 1.—WHAT is the number, and what are the denominations of the Benefices in the Diocese of _____?
- 2.—HOW many Parishes are comprehended in each Benefice? and what are the denominations?
- 3.—ARE the Parishes contiguous to, or how far distant from each other?
- 4.—WHAT is the estimated extent of such as are contiguous?
- 5.—WHEN were the Parishes united into our Benefice, respectively, and by what authority?
- 6.—SHOULD such unions be continued or dissolved; or would any other distribution of the Parishes comprehended within any union be expedient?
- 7.—HAS the Incumbent care of Souls in all parts of his Benefice?

II.

- 1.—HOW many Churches are in each Benefice? What is the present condition of them? and in which of the Parishes do they stand?
- 2.—STATE the names of the Incumbents of all the Benefices?
- 3.—WHERE does each Incumbent reside?
- 4.—WHAT cause is there for the non-residence of such as do not reside?
- 5.—BY whom are the duties discharged?
- 6.—IS there any Glebe-house within the Benefice?
- 7.—IN what Parish is the Glebe-house situated?
- 8.—WHAT Glebe Lands belong to the Benefice?
- 9.—ARE they contiguous to, or how far removed from each other?
- 10.—HOW near are they to the Church, or in cases where there is no Church in repair, how near are they to the site of the old Church?

III.

WHAT Livings are in the different Dioceses of a Value too small to afford to resident Incumbents the means of comfort; and by what mode may the condition of each be most improved?

IV.

WHAT is the allowance now given to Curates, in case of permitted non-residence of the Incumbent, and the number of Curates resident or non-resident upon their cures?

V.

- 1.—WHAT is the best mode of remedying the evil in each particular case of non-residence?
- 2.—WHAT are the powers which now exist of enforcing residence, or which it may be necessary to recommend to the Legislature to provide for that purpose?

VI.

WHAT is the best mode of applying such Funds as are now applicable, or hereafter may become so, to the purpose of building or repairing of Churches or Glebe-houses, or the improvement of Glebes or otherwise?

VII.

WHAT regulations appear to be proper to be established by law, or otherwise, to prevent unions, perpetual or episcopal, from being henceforth improperly made; and to preserve Churches and Glebe-houses from dilapidation when there are more than one in the united Parishes?

VIII.

WHAT can be suggested, in addition to the foregoing Queries, for the improvement, protection, and support of the Church of Ireland?

MY LORD,

Armagh, November 13, 1819.

I HAVE the honour of transmitting to your Excellency, in obedience to the commands of His Royal Highness The Prince Regent, the Returns made by the Bishops of the Province of ARMAGH, respecting the Ecclesiastical state of their several Dioceses. It was thought prudent that these should not be required till after the annual Visitation, as each Bishop would then be better able to render an accurate account of the different Parishes within his jurisdiction. The delay which has occurred since, was occasioned by the deaths of the Archbishop of Tuam and the Bishop of Clogher, which caused many changes in the Church establishment.

I trust your Excellency will find, that great improvement has taken place in the Church of Ireland, since the Report made of it in the year 1806. Subsequent to that period, indeed, many Churches and Glebe-houses have been built; many Glebes have been purchased, many Livings have been divided, and much more actual Residence has been obtained.

The Unions in the Irish Church have long been considered as one of its greatest defects. These Unions are of two kinds, perpetual and pro hac vice; the former are made by the Privy Council, the latter by the Bishop of the Diocese. As Perpetual Unions cannot be effected without the consent of the Patron, the Incumbent, the Bishop, the Archbishop, and the Privy Council, they undergo such severe investigations as precludes all suspicion of their being improperly made. But Episcopal Unions are under no such restraints; and it is possible, therefore, that some of them, particularly those made in former times, may be found to be extremely objectionable.

In justification of such Unions, however, it must be observed, that in many cases the Livings of which they were composed were so inconsiderable, no Clergyman would accept the cure of them. A factious vote of the Irish House of Commons, by prohibiting the payment of agerment tithes, reduced the Vicars to absolute want; and to provide a scanty maintenance, it became necessary to unite several Vicarages into one Benefice. Even now, there are many Unions of Vicarages, consisting of from eight to ten Parishes, which do not produce a clear Ecclesiastical income of two hundred per annum; nay, there are two large Unions, which having been augmented, cannot exceed one hundred.

When Parishes have been long united, every day increases the difficulty of separating them. The Churches are in ruins, the Glebe-houses have disappeared, and in various instances, the small Glebes have been seized by laymen, from whom they cannot now be easily wrested.

The reluctance of Irish Gentlemen to suffer their title deeds to be inspected, in order to sell a few acres of land, often renders it impossible to procure a Glebe, or even the site of a Church; were these Unions then hastily and indiscriminately dissolved, little would be gained by the public or by the Established Church; for the greater part of the Parishes which compose them, would remain without Glebes, Glebe-houses, places of Worship, or resident Clergymen.

Still however it appears expedient, not only to ascertain the real state of Episcopal Unions, but to provide a check against abuse in the exercise of the power of uniting. Now, if the Archbishops written consent were required for such Unions; if none were valid unless made on a separate instrument, containing a detail of the circumstances which rendered the measure necessary; and if all papers relating to it were entered at large in the Registry of the Archbishop of the Province; in the course of a few years every Episcopal Union would be minutely considered, and the making or continuing improper Unions would be entirely prevented.

The real state of the Established Church of Ireland is indeed little known, and has been often extremely misrepresented. Englishmen are acquainted with it only from the works of political writers, or from the description of travellers, who are equally anxious to destroy the establishment. Irish gentlemen are not much better informed, but derive their opinions from what passes in their immediate vicinity; and if Ecclesiastical abuse prevail in the Parish where they reside, they rashly and falsely conclude, that every part of Ireland is in the same deplorable situation.

I am persuaded, however, that great improvements have taken place in this Province; and doubt whether eight contiguous English Dioceses can be found, in which the Churches and Houses are in such excellent order, or the Clergy more careful, exact, and zealous in the discharge of their parochial duties.

I have the honour, &c.

W. ARMA GH.

Earl Talbot,
Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS.

THERE are but two unions in the diocese of DERRY, and I do not think either of them should be dissolved.—No union, perpetual or episcopal, has taken place within the present or the last century; but several parishes have been divided, and afford a reasonable income to the clergyman resident on them.—There are more churches than benefices; more resident clergy than churches; more than three-fourths of the beneficed clergy have glebe-houses.—Three rectors are absent by permission for a limited time; these are beneficed in other dioceses, but occasionally reside in this; and it is expected that in a very few months every clergyman in the diocese will be resident, unless exempted by law; beneficed in some other diocese, where I may think their presence of more consequence consequence to the church establishment than in mine; or doing duty in some parish in my diocese, where their talents may be more beneficially exerted than in their own parish.—The power of exempting clergymen from residence in their own parish if doing duty in another, may, in my opinion, be safely intrusted to the bishop, as in some instances they may be employed much more for the advantage of the establishment in general, and the bishop can have no object but that, in permitting non-residence.

In good repair. Five parish churches in their respective pa- rishes, independent of the cathedral of Down, and a small chapel in Strangford, where duty is discharged by the curate of Bally- culter.	No glebe, except part of an acre very incon- veniently situated in Downpatrick. A small glebe, purchased by Board of First Fruits, on which a glebe-house has been built. No glebe or house, see premises. A small glebe, purchased by the Board of First Fruits; a house built. A glebe, rented from Lord De Clifford under the Act, on which a house has been built.	Rev. Saul, as primae Boulter's fund was ex- hausted, only receives 20l. per ann. This in- come is too small for the benefice, as Mr. Carte pays 30l. a year for the glebe to Lord De Clifford.
In good repair. Four churches, in their respective pa- rishes.	A glebe-house at Hillsborough, on a glebe of 22 acres, subject to a rent of 84l. per annum. A glebe of 230 acres in Kildist, on which a glebe-house has been built by the perpetual curate. A few acres, purchased in Drumbeg by the Board of First Fruits, on which a house has been erected.	Rev. Curate resident, salary 100 l. a year.	—
The church having been very old, and not capable of containing the parishioners, a new one is now building, which will be finished and fit for service in October next.	A glebe-house, in complete repair, on a glebe of 12 acres, not quite a mile from the church.	Curate resident, salary 90 l. a year.	—
An old church in the parish of Newtown, in good repair.	A new glebe-house, built on a glebe of 10 acres, in the parish of Kilbeg, a mile and a half from the church; this is the only glebe in the union.	—	—
A new church, in the best repair.	No glebe; when the church was built, there was a prospect of procuring a glebe under the act of parliament, from Lord Beaumont. The estate has since descended to a Roman Catholic, who refuses to give a glebe.	—	The vicar receives 90 l. a year from the lay impropriator, in lieu of all tithes, and 90 l. augmentation from private Donor's fund.
A church, old and not large enough for the parish; the parishioners have proposed applying for a new church.	A glebe-house, with every necessary office, on a glebe of 17 acres, one mile from the church; two glebes more, one of 3 acres, one mile and a half from the church; and another of 2 acres, on which the church stands—total, 22 acres.	A curate resident, salary 75 l. a year, with the house, garden, and offices.	—
A new church in the parish of Donoughpatrick, in perfect repair.	In Donoughpatrick, the rectory of which is impropriate, is a glebe of about half an acre, on which the church stands. In Kilberry, is an old glebe of 6 acres, to which have been added 18 acres, procured under the act of parliament, on which a glebe-house has been lately built.	A curate resident in the parish, salary 75 l. per annum.	—
The old church of Clongill has fallen into ruin. A new church for the union has been lately built in the parish of Kildyke, and is in perfect repair.	In Kildyke is a glebe of 7 acres, surrounding the church, and another of 1 acre, separated from it by a road. In Clongill is an old glebe of 11a. 10p. to which have been added 7a. 3r. 18p. purchased by the trustees of the First Fruits, on which the glebe-house of the union has been built, at the distance of less than a mile from the church; there are two other small glebes, one of 1a. 2r. 8p. the other of 28p. both near the old church.	—	—
A church, in complete repair.	A new glebe-house, close to the church, on a glebe of 5 acres; there are, besides this glebe, some plots in the town of Slane, with old houses on them.	A resident curate, salary 75 l. with house, garden, and stable.	—

All the denominations of this union, and the four denominations of the following are lay appropriations, in the marquis of Drogheda. They were for years disposed of by him in such a way as to render them totally useless to any purposes of religion, but within these few years, he has consented to make an arrangement with a view to their forming two perpetual unions, one of which (that of Duleek) has been already formed by act of council, the other still remains as episcopal unions. Although the union already made consists of such a number of acres, the value does not exceed 1000. a year; a stipend of 81. per annum was allowed to the curate of Duleek, besides the burial and marriage fees, and the small tithes in some townlands; but at present, it is without any allowance, and by the auditor's book it appears, that a salary of 40l. a year was allowed to the curate of Knockmanna, but this is also now withheld.

Four churches; one newly-built in Killa- ghey; one in Ballyboy, rebuilt; one in Lysally, shingled-roof, in in- ferior repair; one in Eglisk, in tolerable re- pair.	A glebe-house, with necessary offices on the glebe of Killahey, containing 64 a. 2 r. 32 p.	The curates all re- sident; their salaries are 75 l. a year.	—

It would make ample provision for at least four resident vicars; but as it is not to be expected that the patron should consent to it, the next best thing would be to erect each of the churches, Killahey excepted, into a perpetual cure, with the present stipends to the curates, and a proportion of glebe allocated to each; Ballyboy has been already erected into a perpetual cure, but the glebe was purchased by the trustees of the First Fruits.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS:

THE Answer to the Queries in the columns are necessarily, except in a few instances, a repetition of those given to similar Queries in the year 1807. The same may, in some measure, be said of those of a more general tendency, to which it remains to return such answers as relate to matters of opinion.

Query.—What are the powers which now exist, of enforcing Residence, or which it may be necessary to recommend to the Legislature, to provide for that purpose?

Answer.—The powers vested by the canon law, and the primitive discipline of the church, in the Archbishops and Bishops, to enforce Residence, when duly exercised, and no longer checked by appeals to a court of Delegates, constituted as of late years it had been in Ireland, would have been amply sufficient to remedy the abuses arising from Non-residence; and that the several Archbishops and Bishops would have duly availed themselves of those powers, and faithfully executed them, wherever the circumstances of the several parishes in their Dioceses would admit, must appear evident, from the zeal and assiduity with which they have exercised the new powers vested in them by the Act passed in the 48th of the King, for enforcing the Residence of Spiritual Persons on their Benefices in Ireland.

In carrying the provisions of this Act into practice, it has been seen how ineffectual all substitutions to the operation and influence of the primitive discipline of the church must prove; and that when, in the place of the obligations to canonical attendance and a professional feeling, a Clergy are required to look for the great rule of their conduct in the discharge of their spiritual duties, to the enactments of parliamentary statutes and the mere letter of the law, there can be but little hope of forming an exemplary and useful parochial ministry; there is no way of evading the regulations of such statutes, and the temporal penalties they provide, of which they will not avail themselves.

In this act, the time between serving the first summons to reside, and the order for sequestrating the profits of the Benefice, in case of non-compliance with the summons, leaves so many chances for defeating the wishes of the Bishop, that neither neither that, nor the intermediate motions produce any effect; and when, to avoid the consequences of the order of sequestration, the person returns himself resident, there are instances in which, to evade the penalties of the 3d section, he contents himself with appearing in his Benefice one day in every week; but the period of three years that must intervene before he can be deprived of his Benefice, affords a still greater encouragement to him to disregard all proceedings against him, when he has other resources to depend on, besides the profits of his Benefice.—To have any prospect of rendering the act effectual, the order of sequestration should issue in one month after serving the motion, in case of non-compliance; and deprivation should follow a non-compliance of twelve months.

Query.—What is the best mode of applying such funds as are now applicable, or hereafter may become so, to the purpose of building or repairing churches, or glebe-houses, or the improvement of glebes or otherwise?

Answer.—From the liberal grants and loans that have of late been made by Parliament for acquiring of glebes, building glebe-houses, and building or rebuilding churches;—from the stipends of the 48th of the King, ch. 60, and those of the trustees of the First Fruits for giving them effect;—and from the seal of the several Archbishops and Bishops in availing themselves of the facilities thus at length afforded them, of procuring houses of residence, and places of public worship within their respective Dioceses, innumerable advantages have already arisen to the church in Ireland. This, it is to be hoped, will be a powerful incitement to the Government and the Legislature not to restrict these loans and grants till they are made adequate to the remaining exigencies of the establishment.

With respect to the regulations provided by the statute, and necessarily directing the proceedings of the trustees of the First Fruits, some additional provisions are necessary, for enabling them to enforce the regular payment of the instalments on loans for building or rebuilding churches. The proceedings directed at present by the statute, are found to be totally ineffectual, and must ever continue so, as it is perfectly nugatory in the Archbishop and Bishop "to nominate and appoint

"some fit person or persons to levy such instalments, or sum or sums of money as shall be due and unpaid;" no person or persons can be found who will voluntarily undertake that office, and the Archbishops or Bishops have no power to compel the acceptance of the discharge of it.

In the answer to this Query in 1807, an observation was made which is still called for. There are many instances, in which it would be highly expedient to change the site of the church to a more convenient situation; but the consent of the patron, and of the proprietors of land within the parish is required by the law as it now stands; and these proprietors being either absent from the kingdom, or together with the patron opposing the wishes of the minister and the Protestant parishioners, no act of council can be applied for to change the site. Might not the clause, requiring the consent of the landed proprietors, be restricted to resident proprietors; and might it not be sufficient to serve the patron and the resident proprietors with notice of the intention of applying to the privy council, that they might state whatever objections they might have to make against passing the act?

In answering that part of the Query, that relates to Glebes, it may be necessary to observe, that there is an act of parliament that prevents persons under settlement from giving Glebes to parishes that have none, on any other terms than the full acreable value, to be determined by a jury. When a Glebe is offered under these circumstances, the Bishop must either decline accepting it and so leave the parish still without a Glebe, or enter as the Incumbents such a burden, from the high rent that it is almost certain a jury will adjudge, as in small Benefices must make Glebes rather an injury than an advantage. It has been suggested, that as in instances in which a fine may be received by the person granting the Glebe to fine down the rent, the trustees of the First Fruits make a gift of 400*l.* to perpetual Curacies, and of 400*l.* to Benefices not exceeding 200*l.* a year; the trustees may be enabled to advance yearly, out of their general fund, the interest either of the 450*l.* or the 400*l.* as the case may be, to all Incumbents having Glebes, for which they pay the full acreable value, towards the payment of the rent.

Query.—What regulations appear to be proper to be established by law or otherwise, to prevent Unions, perpetual or episcopal, from being henceforth improperly made; and to preserve Churches and Glebe-houses from dilapidation, where there are more than one in the united parishes?

Answer.—The laws, as they now stand, have made such regulations relative to perpetual Unions, as seem to preclude every danger of having any made improperly. Before any parishes can be perpetually united, the Lord Primate, the Bishop of the Diocese, the Incumbent, and the Patron must join in the application to the Lord Lieutenant and privy council; all the circumstances relative to the several parishes are to be declared to them, and a committee, of which a Chief Judge must be one, is to decide on the expediency of the Union, before it can receive the consent of the Lord Lieutenant and council.

Here, however, it may be necessary to repeat what an evil prevails very extensively in this Diocese, suggested in answering the Queries of 1807. There are in the Diocese a number of parishes in the hands of lay-impropriators, either with very small vicarages or without any stipend whatever allowed for the cure of souls, as well as small Benefices in the gift of the Crown without church or glebe. An arrangement of these parishes, so as to form them into perpetual Unions for securing a resident minister and supporting a church, is absolutely essential; but the previous consent of the patron and Incumbents of every parish is an indispensable requisite towards applying to the privy council for the act of Union; and if any of them refuse their consent, the Bishop has no remedy. Might it not be provided that in all such cases, notice of the application of the Archbishop or Bishop to the privy council should be served on each impropriator, patron and incumbent, as proposed in the case of changing the site of churches, that he may state whatever objections he may have to the Union? The same measure might be adopted in cases of dissolving parishes.

Should there be any apprehension of abuse from principal Unions, might it not be a sufficient security against it, if no such Union should be made without a reference to the Lord Primate, as in the case of Families, stating the reasons for making the Union, obtaining his consent, and registering the Union in his court.

In answer to the latter part of this Query, I know of no instance in which there are more than one Glebe-house within parishes either perpetually or episcopally united. Should there be any instance of it in perpetual Unions, the less convenient of the houses should be condemned, and declared to be no longer a Glebe-house. Where there are two or more churches in one Union, there is already an act of parliament that provides for their support.

Query.—What can be suggested, in addition to the foregoing Queries, for the improvement, protection and support of the church in Ireland?

Answer.—To what has been already stated that bears on this Query, it may be added, that to augment the income of the small livings, either by supplies voted by parliament for the purpose, as in England, or by enabling the trustees of the First Fruits to supply out of their funds the deficiency in primae Rector's fund, that has hitherto been applied to that purpose, and to compel the lay-impropriators regularly to pay the stipends reserved for the cure of souls in their original grants, which, in numerous instances they have ceased to do, would essentially contribute to the better support of the church in Ireland. The protection and favour of her nursing father and supreme head, hitherto so sapiently extended to her: the countenance and support of the legislature, on the existence of which as at present constituted, her existence depends; a strict enforcement of all that is enjoined by her canon and constitution, and the maintenance of her primitive discipline; a general permission that in the disposal of the patronage of the Crown, the government of the country will attend, as well in the higher as in the lower departments of the ministry, to professional merit and professional recommendations, in preference to parliamentary or great family interests:—These, with the assistance of the Divine Spirit, promise to be among the most effectual means of contributing to the perfection and improvement of the church in Ireland.

DIOCESE OF TUAM AND ARDAGH.

OBSERVATIONS.

THIS Return has been made out by the Register of the Diocese, and I now merely sign it officially. Having been but just now appointed to these Dioceses, it is quite out of my power to make or certify the required return, as from my own knowledge.

IN my Return for the Diocese of ELPHIN, I have made some General Observations, which in most part may equally well apply here.

Dec. 22, 1839.

OBSERVATIONS:

THESE two last Unions were made in 1805, previous to which period they constituted one See.

THE dates of the Episcopal Unions cannot be ascertained; the Records of the Dioceses being in a great degree destroyed, in the Rebellion of 1798.

DIOCESES OF CLONFERT AND KILMACDUAUGH

OBSERVATIONS

Prefatory to the Answers returned to the Queries, &c. &c. &c.

THE constitution of the Union of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh differing very considerably from that of any other diocese in Ireland, in respect to the appropriation of parochial tithes, and of glebes, from which the necessity of establishing the many and extensive Unions which pervade therein has originated, it may be advisable perhaps, for the purpose of perspicuity, previously and separately to state the constituent characteristics of the See, before I enter upon the replies to the specific interrogatories proposed respecting its anterior arrangements, incompetencies, and defects.

I.—In the Union of the dioceses of Clonfert and Kilmacduagh, is retained the old episcopal establishment of the quarto pars; that is, a portion of the parochial tithes out of almost every parish, payable to the Bishop, making altogether a very considerable article of the episcopal revenue. In some instances the quarto pars comprehends only a fourth of certain decimatioms in a parish, but in general, it involves the fourth of the tithes of the whole parish, and through Kilmacduagh, such is its impart in every parish without exception. The incomes also severally of the Deans and Dignitaries of the two cathedrals (none of whom, except the Dean of Kilmacduagh, have any owes of souls, or any prebendal houses of residence) arise out of a partition of the parochial tithes.

II.—Out of 59 parishes, the whole number in the united dioceses, 44 pay the quarto pars to the Bishop; in some he is entitled to two; in other, to three quarto pars. Between the sums of 261 and of 60*l.* intermediately, are comprehended the degrees of the whole scale of this parochial allotment to the diocesan.

Hence has arisen the necessity, for the purpose of supplying a competent provision to the parochial incumbent, of compressing the 59 parishes by Unions, into 14 benefices, allotted to 14 incumbents.

III.—In respect to the value of the individual component members of these Unions, it extends from 20*l.* annually to 50*l.*; the aggregate result, in few instances, exceeds 250*l.*; and in no instance, except two, it exceeds 400*l.* per annum, including the return of both glebe and tithes; such, at least, is my opinion after minute inquiry.

IV.—Some remarks having been made in public upon the improper extent of episcopal Unions in Ireland, and there being in the diocese of Clonfert three Unions, apparently upon the first view, to a stranger of that description, I hope it will not be deemed irrelevant to the purpose of this inquiry, if I state minutely the circumstances of each. The names of the three Unions are, Kilcolgan, Lickahilly, and Ballymacward; the first contains eleven parishes. To an inquiry, which I made some short time after my appointment to this diocese, I received a letter from the rev. Mr. Young, the incumbent, a very respectable character, out of which I take the following extract:—

"1. The whole Union of nine parishes comprehends about fifteen thousand acres, in which an acre of bog does not exist, but a vast number of acres of rock. One quarter of the tithes only belongs to the Vicar; the other three quarters belong to the Bishop, the Rector of Andrusha, the Archdeacon, the Provost (of Kilmacduagh) and the Vicars Choral of Clonfert Cathedral, severally.

"2. Tithes are paid with great reluctance, though I never set mine to a tithe proctor, but give every person his own. The small parishes of Ballane and Killooly do not seem to belong to the Union.

" Union, but were probably given to it to add a little to the income. The income of the Union has " been as follows, deducting the expense of my tithes collector, expense of process, &c. &c.

In 1803. - - - - -	£. 111. 14. 1.	Glebes ;
- 1804 - - - - -	113. 9. 3.	Kilcolgan - 6 acres - - - £. 7. 0. 0.
- 1805 - - - - -	110. 4. 6.	Kirvana - 3½ - - - 5. 0. 0.
- 1806 - - - - -	109. 0. 4.	Killernan - 2 - - - 2. 5. 6.
- 1807 - - - - -	108. 11. 2.	Killeely - 1½ - - - 1. 14. 1.
- 1808 - - - - -	105. 9. 0.	Danmellon, not asked for est."

2. Lackanally contains the parishes of Lackanally, Ballynahill, and Lestry, a Union of great extent, perhaps not less than 54,000 acres, improved and unimproved, and may well be dissolved; but the Union was formed in 1735; the benefice has never become vacant except once by resignation in the time of the present diocesan; and as the Earl of Clancarde is the reputed patron, any new arrangement could not be affected by the will alone of the diocesan.

3. Ballymacward is a Union of five parishes, all contiguous, the income of which if divided, would supply a decent endowment for two benefices; but the title to the patronage of some of the component parishes is claimed by the Clancarde family also, and has been frequently litigated with the Bishop of the day, at great expense to both parties. I do not conceive, that in the two dioceses there is any other instance of a Union, but what is absolutely necessary to support the modest expenses of every parish church, and afford a moderate subsistence to a clergyman and his family.

V.—It is to be observed also, that these Unions were arranged in an early period of the last century; and where there is a conflicting presumption to patronage, as unfortunately, and indeed it may be, (if some amicable or legal adjustment do not take place,) valuable to the Bishop is the case in Clonsfert, dissolutions and new unions are hazardous and difficult measures.

VI.—In respect to perpetual Unions (Query VII.) the power of creating or dissolving them seems at present, under the existing laws, to rest as much with the civil as ecclesiastical department of the State, and is fully competent to prevent any improper consolidations. From the enlargement of towns, the increase of rents payable to ecclesiastical corporations, reclaiming of waste land, and improvement in the science of agriculture, it must be admitted that consolidations, unreasonable at the present day, exist, which probably were the creations of necessity in former times, and ought now, at fit opportunity, to be dissolved; but in many instances, especially in respect to the utility of erecting comfortable Glebe-Houses, consolidations surely are necessary and political; and I am inclined to think, that a regulation to facilitate the accomplishment of perpetual Unions is, in particular cases, and for several reasons, as desirable as one to prevent them; in one respect, because all grants and loans for Churches or Glebe-Houses are regulated in episcopal Unions, by the value of some one competent member of the Union, and not by the product of the whole collectively; it is otherwise under consolidations.

If any new regulation be deemed necessary to adjust episcopal Unions, I conceive an injunction to consult with a local superior may be the most advisable; local, from the necessity of local knowledge to form a competent judgment of circumstances.

VII.—I apprehend, that the laws already in being establish the best mode of applying such funds as are now applicable to the purpose of building or repairing Churches or Glebe-Houses.

But I have often conceived, and not altogether altogether by personal experience, that under these laws it might be a prudent provision to establish an architect resident in each province, an ecclesiastical civil, whose duty should be to visit occasionally, at proper times, every ecclesiastical building in each diocese; to be open at all times to the communications of each Incumbent; attend at every annual visitation, or perhaps annual; be there subject to local inquiries by the Archbishop and Bishop, make a Report in writing, and under affidavit, of what buildings are, either from the neglect of the Incumbent, or effect of age or accident, or original bad construction, in a state of dilapidation or decay; the character of the new fabrica built, building, or intended to be built, and various matters of a professional nature.

In

In its first effect, such an appointment would prove a most desirable relief, in respect to adjusting the charges for disbursements upon successors to benefices, which it is well known have too often been a source of private dispute, public litigation, and consciousness of appeal; and experience has lamentably proved, what speculation could not but have anticipated, that in their architectural expenditures, however attentive and conscientious, the clergy have frequently stood in need of some such informant, to direct or discover the want of science or of integrity in the undertakers they have employed.

There is already indeed the establishment of an architect to the Board of First Fruits; but his department comprehends other objects than local visitation and report; nor can, perhaps, any individual resident in Dublin, and possessed of other public appointments, be efficient through every diocese of the kingdom in subordinate details and attendance.

VIII.—Under the present law, in the collecting and enforcing the payment of parochial cesses, raised in vestments for the purpose of liquidating by annual instalments the loan advanced by the Board of First Fruits for the building of churches, insuperable obstacles occur. This is to be proved by the arrest now upon the books of the Board of First Fruits under this head, and it seems therefore to be a very important and urgent necessity, that some more efficient manner for the collection of the said cesses should be provided.

IX.—I humbly conceive, that the benefit of the gift granted by Government to the parochial Incumbent, for the purpose of purchasing a Glebe, ought to be distributed equably to all incumbents who may stand in need of it, thus is not the case at present; for instance—

1. The Incumbent who is so fortunate as to discover a convenient portion of land, the fee or perpetual title of which is to be disposed of, obtains for himself and his successors the full benefit of the gift; namely, a Glebe discharged of all rent or reserved incumbrance; and valuations, chosen partly by the Bishop or himself, and partly by the vendor, regulate the balance of the bargain.

2. But the Incumbent for whom a portion of land which is under settlement, is bought, obtains a Glebe subject to a perpetual rent, payable by himself and successors; and as the quantum of rent is fixed by a sheriff's jury, the quantum is seldom beneath the value of the premises. The remedy for this would, of course, be legal permission for proprietors under settlement to sell and fine down the rent as far as 20 acres.

3. And the Incumbent who can discover no purchasable land, which is a very common case, partakes in no degree of the bounty of the Government. In cases somewhat similar, I have been informed, that in England the grant of money is equally made, and the interest of the sum paid to the Incumbent until fit opportunity offer to purchase.

X.—In respect to pure or unassociated cathedrals, where there is no capital or revenue appropriated for their repair, and where the dignities are scarcely endowed, or even where the establishment has been made both capital and parochial, if the fabric is situated in a parish of little ability, there seems to be a great probability that these noble monuments of ancient piety will fall into decay, except the bounty of the State, through the First Fruits or from some other fund, be extended to their restoration and preservation.

Previously to the last vacancy of this vicarage, the union consisted of seven denominations, viz. Moelick, Faly, Tyrmacmogh, Kilmaloe, Kilmur, and Kilmacmogh; the present bishop in 1813 dissolved the said union, and united to Clonfert the parish of Clontarf, contiguous to Clonfert, in lieu of five of the above denominations, two of which only are contiguous to Clonfert, viz. Moelick and Faly; Kilmacmogh is on the opposite side of the river Shannon, in the King's county, at a distance of five miles.

The cathedral of Clonfert is both capacious and spacious, an ancient and spacious structure, at present in good repair; but as the dean and chapter are possessed of no economy or estate whatever, to keep it in repair; and as the erection of a new church in one of the members of the union, namely Clontarf, will deprive the mother church of its usual supply by parochial care in that parish, it is much to be deplored that without some external resource, it will be too burdensome, after a few years, upon the parishioners of Clonfert solely to preserve the venerable fabric, of tower and church from dilapidation. The church of Clontarf, is a new and creditable building, standing in a very proper situation for the convenience of the Protestant parishioners.	In the parish of Clonfert, an excellent new glass-house, erected on a glebe of 40 acres, improved and planted by the present incumbent, and holder of the bishop (being part of the see lands) at a reserved rent, not more than 500 yards distant from the church; no other glebe in this parish. In the parish of Clontarf, no glebe at present, and therefore no manse, but the accustomed sum has been granted by the Board of First Fruits for such; and a negotiation commenced for the purchase of a very agreeable site, but a difficulty has been suggested as to the legal title unexpectedly, and some delay in the matter must necessarily take place.	Rev. Mr. Hume, who not being able to procure a proper residence in the parish, is obliged, until the intended glass-house shall be erected, to live out of it, but is sufficiently near to perform all the duties; and hitherto the service of the church has not commenced, the church-yard wall not being finished, the curate resides in the parish contiguous to the union, and the vicar in the manse.	In the parish of Clonfert, the bishop is entitled throughout a large district of it, to three "quarta pars" or three-fourths of the tithes; the dean, throughout a similar portion, claims four quarters, and an another portion three. The prebendaries of Agassella, Killeenell, Killeenell, Fennore, and the monks, have claim also in their separate proportions; what remains is the scanty proportion appropriated to the officiating vicar, who is answerable for
One church, newly erected in the town of Eyrecoast.	No glass-house; glebe supposed of 2½ acres, situated in the centre of Eyrecoast manse, with boundary defined, the usual sum was granted by the Board of First Fruits, for the purchase of a glebe, which was hitherto apparently effected by Doctor Eyre, with his brother Gifford Eyre, etc. the chief proprietor of the parish; but on investigation of the title, the purchase has been abandoned, and search is making for another portion of land.	No curate.	These parishes, individually are too small to be separated, and neither could be united to any other more conveniently; the vicar is entitled to only one fourth of the tithes throughout these denominations, except in Kilmarnock, where he has two; the other quarters belong to the bishop and the archdeacon, except a portion in Faly, appropriated to an incumbent in the diocese of Tuam.
One church, newly erected in Kilmarnock parish.	A glass-house, newly erected (on a glebe of 11 a. 2 r. 2 p.) in the parish of Kilmarnock, at the distance of half a mile from the church. A glebe in the parish of Kilmarnock, the bounds of which are unascertained at present; it has paid the incumbent at 5 s. 6 d. per annum, from a distant period.	No curate.	Each member of this union, if separated.
One church, in excellent order, in the town of Ballinacorney, in the parish of Killeenell.	No glass house; a glebe in Crough, of 22 a. 2 r. 11 p. one mile from the church; a glebe in Tophamscornell, of 16 a. 3 r. 3 p. six miles from the church; the bishop has not been able to procure a suitable glebe in any of these parishes for the incumbent to build on, application has been made to the chief proprietor of the soil, unsuccessfully.	Rev. J. G. Gahrahan, resident.	Each member of this union, if separated.

Episcopally united, period unknown. APPENDIX.

General Observations, in reference to Quarters Not answered in the Columns.

1. UPON a general Recapitulation, it appears, that in the Diocese of Clogfert and Kilmacdough, there are fourteen Rectories, upon which are sixteen parial Churches; that, although within the last ten years, upon the whole number of benefices there existed but one glebe-house, there are now eight; another commenced upon, could a proper site have been obtained, which in every case has been repeatedly attempted; and in two or three nearly effected, there would have been no benefice without its glebe-manse.

It appears also, that there are ten resident rectors, four resident curates, three rectors possessed of other benefices, therefore exempt from residence in Clogfert, but one of whom is about to build and reside in this diocese.

2. Upon observing the impracticability in some instances, of procuring a site for a glebe-house, either by exchange or purchase, the necessity seems obvious of devising some measure which may meet that impracticability; perhaps an Act of Parliament might be advisable, granting a power to certain Commissioners to compel the sale of a convenient portion of land for a church or a manse, ad valorem, and also of stone, gravel and sand, as materials for building; in some such manner as is already enacted respecting shafts and adits to mines, lines of canals, public roads, and materials to make and repair them, &c.

3. It appears that a scanty portion of glebes, except in one instance, is distributed throughout the parishes; that the native right of tithes to the parochial incumbent, in the proportion perhaps of three-fifths, is alienated and appropriated to others. It is a fact also, that no tithes are paid of potatoes, rape, turneps, flax; a large proportion of the country being appropriated to grass farms, the prescription of agistment is extensively felt, and the title of hay paid in very few instances, and where it has been paid, now litigated; the litigation supported by a public subscription, made at meetings called and presided at by noblemen and gentlemen of the first rank and property in the county of Galway; and where the clergyman who demanded it, has been colonnized for appealing to the decision of the Law in respect to his right. No small dues demanded; no fees on births, christenings, churchings, and a very small one on marriages; none from the poor.

4. Under this state and arrangement of parochial property, great as the evil is of an aggregation of distant parishes, I do not conceive that any dissolution of Unions, or other distribution of parishes, would be expedient, except in the single instance of Beagh, which is at too great a distance from Ardahan (to which it is united) for the parishioners to attend the church there, or even for the incumbent residing in Ardahan, to discharge the occasional duties of Beagh. These two parishes are moreover divided by the intervention of the parish of Kiltarton, a paricle of the Union of Kilmacdough, and the parishioners of Beagh attend divine services at Gort, where the church of Kilmacdough stands, and are rated in parochial cases by the vestry of Gort, though external as of that parish. I think a portion of Kiltarton, adjacent to Ardahan, should be exchanged for Beagh; or a perpetual curacy established at Beagh.

5. Many new arrangements indeed, highly productive of comfort to the clergyman, and conducive to the firmer establishment of the Protestant religion, might be made in the Union of the Dioceses of Clogfert and Kilmacdough, were the Government to extend to it the same policy, under which, at different periods, it has been planned to regulate, I believe, every diocese of Ireland; namely, by granting him a compensation, to enable the bishop to restore the Quarta Pars, now allotted to the See, to the officiating parochial incumbents severally; of such a measure, the first result would be to release the diocesan from the necessity of employing tithe-farmers or tithe-proctors; in the hands of the incumbents, individually, these portions would increase much in their value; their dispartitions would by a reasonable foundation for the dissolution of several of the present Unions, perpetual or episcopal; new churches and additional incumbents would naturally follow; and a competency established for general residence in remote districts, in some instances where the service of the Protestant Church has never been performed.—Please to see the Act, 4th of Geo. I. c. 14, respecting Tithes.

6. In the parish of Clonfert, upon the dissolution of the present system adverted to, it would be more, I think, than expedient, by incorporating it with the deanery, to establish there the residence of the dean; the house already built there is perfectly suitable to the dignity of that station; and the dean is at present without care and residence.

7. In proceeding to recover a debt by sequestration, the writ to sequester must be directed to the Bishop, although he himself be plaintiff in the cause; and the bishop commits the sequestration to some person to be named by himself; thus, I believe, will be allowed by any constitutional lawyer to be an awkward, if not almost an anomalous process. But I should not have presumed to touch upon any principle so closely bordering upon our code of civil law, had I not been induced, from instances which I have recently witnessed, of clerical individuals being inadvertently, if not unavoidably, brought into situations of much distress and great delicacy (by the operation of the substitution of the ordinary for the sheriff, in the execution of the writ of levam facias,) to submit, with great deference, and in the consciousness indeed of ignorance, though not without the confidence that I am thereby acting conformably to the great object of this inquiry, whether the subject might not be a proper one for professional and authoritative review.

Christ' Clonfert and Kilmacdagh.

DIOCESE OF ELPHIN.

No. of BENEFI- CES.	No. of DENOMI- NATIONS.	NAMES OF BENEFIICES AND DENOMINATIONS. Number of Parishes in each Benefice; Their distance from each other, and, the estimated extent of each in any vicinages	INCUMBENTS; Whether having cure of souls, whether resident; if non resident, for what cause, and by whom the duties are discharged.	BENEFIICES; When united; and by what authority
1.	2.	Diocese of Elphin consists of two parishes; viz. Elphin - - - - acres 5,539 Ogalla - - - - - 3,502	Very rev. John French; having cure of souls, and is resident; and the duties are discharged by the dean and a resident curate.	These parishes, I conclude, have been al- ways the corps of the diocese, for I can find no records in the diocese, when or by what autho- rity they were united.
2.	1.	Archdiocese of Elphin consists of one parish, viz. Kilkean - - - acres 5,171	The venerable W ^m Digby; having cure of souls, and is resident; and discharges the duties himself.	—
3.	5.	Presbyterate of Elphin consists of a portion of the pa- rishes of Shonkell, Kilmacumay, Kilcorry, Kilsoda and Creeve. (The estimated extent of each of which parishes will be found under the return of their vicinages.)	Rev. Richard Wynne; not having cure of souls; and is not resident, it being a perfect sinecure.	—
4.	3.	Prebend of Ballinabber consists of three parishes; viz. Ballinabber - - - acres 2,646 Kilcrevan - - - - - 6,128 Baclick - - - - - 5,681 (These parishes are contiguous.)	Rev. Dr. Blasdell; having cure of souls, and is resident, and the duties are discharged by him.	These parishes were united by authority of an act of parliament, 9th of Queen Anne.
5.	4.	Prebend of Killybeggie consists of a portion of tithes of the parishes of Kilrutan, Clea- fallow, Bannia, and Liscorty. (The estimated extent of each of which parishes will be found under a return of their vicinages.)	Rev. Dr. Brinkley; not having cure of souls, and is not resident, it being a perfect sinecure.	—
6.	1.	Prebend of Arteragh consists of the parish of Ti- bolton, the estimated extent of which is 9,193 acres.	Rev. J. H. Goughery; having cure of souls; is non-resident, being very old and infirm, and not capable of discharging the duties of his pa- rish, and therefore is permitted to be non-resident; the duties are performed by a resident curate at one end of the parish, and a perpetual curate at the other.	—
7.	1.	Perpetual Curacy of Longlegagh consists of part of the foregoing parish of Tibolton, the estimated extent of which is returned above.	This curacy is at this moment vacant.	—
8.	7.	Prebend of Kilswoley consists of seven parishes; viz. Kilswoley - - - acres 2,026 Ardelea or Clonagormacum 3,519 Kilkean - - - - - 1,511 Creeve - - - - - 1,851 Shankill - - - - - 2,780 Kilmacumay - - - - 2,759 Turtua - - - - - 2,750	Rev. Oliver Carey; having cure of souls; is non-resident; there being no glebe land upon this benefice, nor does it appear that a suitable residence could be procured upon it; the duties are discharged by himself.	Episcopally united in 1809.
The three first parishes are contiguous to each other, as are the next three; but very far, at least two miles distant from each other, and the last parish is very far distant from any of the others.

OBSERVATIONS:

THE estimated extent of each of the Parishes is taken from the Church Applotment, and in no instance includes bog or mountain.

It is presumed that the query, as to what is the present condition of the Churches, means, whether they are or are not in a state fit for the celebration of divine service, and under this impression the query is answered; but there are some Churches in this Diocese, in very poor parishes, very old and indifferent.

Conceiving that every Living under 150*l.* per annum is of a value too small to afford comfort to the Incumbent, the query is answered accordingly. I cannot suggest the mode by which the condition of these may be most improved.

All Parishes episcopally united, must have been so united when the incumbent was collated or inducted, for then the Bishop, if he saw it expedient, had it in his power to dissolve and divide the union; the answer to this query gives the date of the titles of such Incumbents, in all cases of episcopal union.

I feel myself enabled, satisfactorily, to answer that query particularly,—“Should such Unions be continued or dissolved, or would any other distribution of Parishes, comprehended within any Union, be expedient?” Were all the Livings in this diocese vacant, it would be found necessary, from the extreme poverty of many of the benefices, to unite again the parishes of which they are composed; but there are some unions of parishes in this diocese, that in my opinion ought to be divided and differently distributed.

I have never found it necessary to have recourse to the law to enforce the residence of any Clergyman, but I should conceive the Act of the 48th of the King sufficiently strong for the purpose. There are instances where the residence of the Incumbents of parishes is quite impracticable, for want of globe-houses or globe lands on which to build such globe-houses, or the possibility of procuring any suitable residence upon the benefice.

The funds now intrusted to the Board of First Fruits, for the building or re-building Churches, are not by law or otherwise applicable to the repair of Churches. I would suggest the expediency of extending the power of the Board of First Fruits to grant money to parishes for the repair of their churches, by law, in the same way in which it is empowered to make loans for building and re-building churches.

At present, the Board of First Fruits have power to grant money for the purchase or the fixing down of the rent of Land for Glebe. In some parishes, the proprietors are so circumstanced by settlements, that the proprietors cannot sell or take a fine; but the Legislature has provided, that in such case the proprietor may alienate for ever some acres, not exceeding a given number, but at the full assessed value, under the Verdict of a Jury. Thus the Incumbent, perhaps of a very small and poor benefice, is put under a most heavy rent, which in many instances is highly inconvenient, while the Board of First Fruits can afford him no relief or assistance out of the funds at their disposal. I would suggest the expediency of empowering the Board of First Fruits to grant, in such cases, the same sums of money which they have the power of doing if there were no settlements to bar the proprietors of lands from selling or taking a fine, and the sum so granted to be put into the funds for the use of such Incumbent, towards paying his heavy rent, and to be ready at any favourable opportunity to purchase or fine down the rest of the land.

I cannot conceive how the power of making perpetual Unions can well be put into hands where it is so little liable to abuse, as in the Privy Council of Ireland; and I should hope that there is little danger of any Archbishop or Bishop knowingly making improper Episcopal unions.

The law, I believe, simply provides for the preservation of Churches and Glebe-houses from dilapidation, when there are more than six in the united parishes, by the formation of perpetual Curacies.

I venture to suggest the expediency and decency of some fund being made applicable to the repair and improvement of some of the Cathedral Churches in Ireland, which now have no sufficient funds to keep them in repair, and are in far from a decent state.

Under the law by which Loans are made by the Board of First Fruits to Incumbents of parishes, towards building their Glebe-houses, it is required that the Loan should be repaid at the rate of six per cent. This I think, in many instances, falls very heavy upon the builder. I would suggest the expediency of so altering the law, that the Loan should be repaid at the rate of three per cent. instead of six per cent.

RECAPITULATION AND SUMMARY, &c. - - - - - p. 174, & 177.

GENERAL ABSTRACT OF THE PROVINCE OF LEINSTER - - - - - p. 178

The Archbishop of CASHEL to The LORD LIEUTENANT, acknowledging the RETURNS from LEINSTER and MUNSTER.

My Lord,

I HAVE the honour of laying before your Excellency returns from the Prelates of Leinster and Munster, showing the actual situation of the Established Church in that District, in relation to the points specified in the instructions which your Excellency was pleased to transmit to me.

I trust they will furnish evidence of improvement since 1805, the date of the last report, which will be found not to fall short of what might have been expected from the manifest grants of money and other aids which the Legislature has supplied.

Since the period referred to, an Act has been passed for promoting the residence of the Clergy, which has been found efficacious, in the very few instances in which there has been occasion to enforce it.

On the subject of Unions, it seems to me very doubtful whether any further enactment by the Legislature respecting them, is necessary, or would be productive of benefit. The Returns now laid before your Excellency, will show, even on the most superficial examination, that urgent occasions have occurred, and must still occur in a multitude of instances, for forming Unions, both permanently by act of Council, and temporarily by the authority of Bishops.

The imperfect division of Parishes imposes the necessity of uniting; while the fluctuating circumstances of the country, on many occasions, induce the expediency of varying Unions to meet the exigencies that arise.

The considerations on which Unions may be made, are already defined, namely contiguity, smallness of extent and insufficiency of income. It would seem then, that a question could only arise either as to the mode by which they should be made, or as to the persons in whom the discretion and consequent responsibility of making occasional Unions should rest. It might perhaps be thought an improvement in the mode of constituting Unions by episcopal authority, if it were done in all cases by a distinct instrument, which should specify the considerations above mentioned; and possibly the general confidence in the administration of Church discipline might be increased, if still further responsibility were engaged. I have adverted to these two changes, without any persuasion that they are needed, but because, should they be thought eligible by persons of better judgment, I knew no reasonable objection to their adoption.

I have the honour to be, with high respect,

Your Excellency's very faithful and obedient humble Servant,

R^{ts} Reverend Earl Talbot, &c. &c. &c.

Charles Carter.

1.	1.	Saint Nicholas, Cork - -	The dean and chapter: the dean resides in the deanery house in the parish; divine service is performed in the cathedral by the reader, assisted by the chorists; the occasional duties by the curate, appointed by the Dean; and preaching by the dignities and prebendaries in turn, or by the priesthood residentary.	No union.
2.	1.	Temple Breedy - vicarage - - (rectory inappropriate.)	The dean is not resident in either of these parishes, being resident in the deanery house. Duties of this by perpetual curate, who is resident.	At a time prior to any diocesan record, perhaps at the time of the founding of the deanery, and by the authority of which it was founded.
	2.	Cullen - - - - rectory - -	Duties performed by the curate of neighbouring parish.	With respect to the many denominations of which dignities, pre- bends, or curacies con- sist, it is not in the power of the bishop, or even of the local treatment and
3.	3.	Temple Martin - - - -	Duties performed by perpetual curate, who is resident.	as the Act 21 Geo. II, chap. 8, (Irish) permits the severance of a distinct parish from a dignity, prebend, or curacy, only on the condition of the adding another parish of at least equal value, as lies of the parish taken away.
4.	1.	The Clanship: Carrigrohane - - - - rectory - -	The rev. Henry Sandford; has care of souls, but is, by reason of ill health and inability, excused residence. Duties performed by resident curate.	At a time, and by the authority above men- tioned. See observation on the preceding num- ber.
	2.	Carrigrohane - - - - rectory - -
	3.	Cortally - - - - rectory - -

OBSERVATIONS.

THE Livings in those Dioceses which are too small to afford to resident incumbents the means of comfort, have, in general, as will appear from the Report, been united to some contiguous Livings, when the junction was feasible and justifiable. When such unions are undesirable, the Board of First Fruits have authority to suggest, but the funds for so doing are too small to be generally effective.

I think the laws established fully adequate to enable the Archbishops and Bishops to enforce residence generally.

The wisdom of the mode adopted by the Board of First Fruits, for applying the funds vested in their hands for the purpose of building Churches and Glebe-houses, has been happily evinced by the vast increase of both in Ireland, within these few years. I humbly suggest, however, that an improvement might be made in the application of that branch of those funds which have been applied to the purchase

RECAPITULATION AND SUMMARY:

IN THE DIOCESE OF CORK are fifty-seven Benefices with cure of souls, on which are fifty Churches built or building; on nine there are no Churches. The number of Parishes is seventy-six; of the above fifty-seven Benefices thirteen are Unions. There are twenty-three Glebe-houses built or building; thirty-four Benefices are without Glebe-houses, on seventeen of which there is no glebe, or here on which a house could be built with advantage. Of the Beneficed Clergy thirty-one are resident on their Benefices, or so near as to perform the duty of them; eleven are resident on other Benefices, which they hold by faculty; of those who are absent from their Benefices, six have been lately collated, and having no Glebe-houses, have not as yet been able to procure a place of residence; one is absent till his house is completed; three are permitted on account of age and infirmity; three on account of the very small income of their Benefices, one is chaplain to the Hibernian school in Dublin; and one has the temporary charge of a congregation in Dublin.

purchase of glebe-lands, and particularly for perpetual curate; and I shoud propose, that power should be given to the Board to enable them, in cases where the grantor of the glebe cannot recover a fine, to vest the fine, usually given, in the funds, and the interest paid to the perpetual curate till opportunity offers to purchase the land, or fine down the rent. Paying the full rent, as is now done, in cases such as I have alluded to, bears heavily upon the small income of the curate.

In my opinion, the existing laws are fully adequate to prevent synodal assents from being improperly made, and to enforce the preservation of Churches and Glebe-Houses from dilapidations; and indeed, I think, a steady application of the laws established will fully ensure the protection and support of the Church of Ireland.

RECAPITULATION AND SUMMARY.

IN THE DIOCESE OF ROSS are twenty Benefices having cure of souls, on which are fifteen Churches built or building; on five there are no Churches. The number of Parishes is thirty-one. Of the above twenty Benefices, five are Unions; there are seven Glebe-houses built or building; thirteen Benefices are without Glebe-houses, on eleven of which there is no glebe, or none on which an house could be built with advantage. Of the Beneficed clergy, twelve are resident on their Benefices, or so near as to perform the duty of them; two are resident on other Benefices, which they hold by faculty; of those which are absent, one is permitted on account of ill health; one, whose income from his Benefice is wholly inadequate to his support, is resident curate and preacher at the cathedral of Ross; three others also, whose income can afford no decent support; one is commissary at Lismore, where he resides, and is vicar choral of that cathedral.

THE DEAN AND CHAPTER OF THE CATHEDRAL CHURCH OF SAINT BRIDGET, KILDARE.

THERE is here no Parish. The jurisdiction of the Dean spiritually extends throughout the liberty of the Cathedral Church.

The Dean has cure of souls, as this term is understood, when it has relation to the dignity and office of Dean.

There is in this number one Church Cathedral.

The Reverend Thomas French, Dean,
James Gregory, Precentor,
Arthur McGuire, Chancellor,
John Bayly, Treasurer,

The Reverend William Cox, First Canon,
Charles Lindsey, Second Canon,
Francis McGuire, Third Canon,
Ralph Dillon, Fourth Canon.

With the exception of the Reverend William Cox, the First Canon, who resides in the city of Kildare, in a house of his own procuring, the Dean and Chapter are not resident; the Dean resides at his own house, about eight miles distant, and from thence discharges such of his canonical duties as by local custom remain to be performed. The Precentor resides in the parish of Lea, ten miles distant. The Chancellor in the parish of Saint Thomas, in Dublin, of which he is Rector. The Treasurer is Dean of Kildare, his residence unknown. The First Canon resides de facto; the Second Canon at his perpetual Curacy of Mounksnowen, in the Diocese of Dublin; the Third at his Curacy of Ballynashan, in the Diocese of Ardfagh, and the Fourth at his Benefice of Ballynascaw, in the Diocese of Clonfert.

The above named William Cox discharges such duties of the Dean as he has delegated him to; and by agreement with the rest of the Chapter he discharges their duties also in the terms of the canon.

There are no Residentiary or Glebe-houses within these Benefices. There are no Glebe Land, properly speaking; several of the members, as well as the Dean, have small tenements, with land annexed, which are prebendal estates, and have gone out of mind, been in leasehold. These estates are severally in the City and Liberties of the cathedral church of Kildare, and are variously situated with relation to the Church, but all within two miles thereof.

The Dean, and the seven members of the Chapter of this Cathedral Church, are too poorly endowed to have comfort as resident Incumbents.

The Reverend William Cox, it is understood, has, including his own contribution, one hundred pounds per annum, as Canon Residentiary for the other members of this Deanery.

Corps of the bishopric, in which are comprised upwards of twenty townships or places which yield tithes to the bishop; in some cases the whole, in others two-thirds, in others the tithes of corn only. It does not appear, that any of these places ever comprehended a distinct parish, they are scattered over eighteen miles of country in the diocese and county of Kildare.	There is no cure of souls in this preceptory. The possession of these tithes by the bishop, is prejudicial to the incumbents of the parishes, to which the places where they grow and annually renew seem naturally to belong, because they narrow the means of their subsistence, and thus occasion, in part, non-residence.	—

5.	1. 2. 3.	There are three denominations in this benefice: Kilcock - - - a vicarage - Cloacurry (in Skeath) a vicarage - Ballynaclogh - - a vicarage - To Kilcock are appropriated the sectorial tithes of the parish of Do- werry, they are contiguous. area. In Kilcock, by computation - 5,673 Cloacurry - - - - - 5,066 Ballynaclogh, or Howland, 900	The rev. Archibald Douglass, the incumbent, has cure of souls in all parts of this united benefice. In Dowerry, he has no cure of souls; there is a vicar in that parish. He resides at Carnallway, in this diocese, by faculty. There is no house of official residence in any of these parishes. The duties are dis- charged by the rev. Matthew Peter.	These parishes, with Ballynash, were usually held in episcopal union. The present bishop, on a vacancy in the year 1811, dissolved Bally- nash from them, and united these parishes in one benefice, which, though comprehending in its extent 5,233 acres, affords little to the incumbent beyond a de- cent subsistence; were this union dissolved, it would not be easy to make any other arrange- ment for the main- tenance of a resident in- cumbent.
6.	1.	Ballynash - - a vicarage - -	Vacant. There is cure of souls in all parts of this benefice; the duties have been hitherto discharged gradu- ately by the rev. Newman Whit- law, rector of the adjoining parish of Donadea.
7.		In this benefice there are two de- nominations. Donadea - - is a prebend of the cathedral church of Kildare (not of the chapter) and a rectory - with Ballynash - a vicarage - - - Not quite contiguous, but very little distant from each other. area In Donadea there are 1,018 In Ballynash - - - 9,051	The rev. Newman Whitlaw; has cure of souls in all parts of his benefice, but in Donadea are ap- propriated the sectorial tithes of Stoughton, in the vicarage of Bal- linafad, the adjoining parish, wherein he has no cure of souls. He resides at his own house in the parish of Straffan, about 4 miles distant; there is no official house of residence in either parish of the union, and his residence is within two miles of Ballynash; the duties are discharged by himself.	These had for a great length of time been held episcopally united, and on a late vacancy in the year 1814, the bishop confirmed the union; this union should in all reason be continued un- til Donadea shall receive some other union, which may readily be accom- plished; to assist in de- fraying the debt incurred to the board of First Fruits, for a loan to re- build the old church; Ballynash is assessed for its share of this loan.
8.	4.	There are four denominations in this benefice of Clane. Clane - - - a vicarage - - Marham - - a vicarage - - Killybegs - - a vicarage - - Clanshamba - a vicarage - - All contiguous. area Clane - - - - - 1,380 Marham - - - - - 1,714 Killybegs - - - - - 1,353 Clanshamba - - - - 1,334	Vacant by the decease of the rev. Matthew West. The duties are discharged by the rev. Edward Hackett.	Upon the termination of a suit respecting the right of patronage of these four parishes, a better disposition may be made, by com- prehending Ballynash, now united with Donadea, in a new distribution of them; in which case, Clanshamba, being con- tiguous to Donadea, might form some com- pensation to it for the loss of Ballynash.

5. No. of CHURCHES; Whether in repair; and in which parishes they stand.	6. GLEBE HOUSES. In what parish; what Glebe Lands; Whether contiguous, or how far removed from each other, or from the Church, or site of old Church.	7. CURATES SALARIES, In case of permanent non- residence of the Incumbents, and whether resident or not.	8. LIVINGS Of a value too small to afford comfort to the Incumbents.
One church at Kil- cock, an old building, in good repair.	No glebe-house. In Kilcock no glebe; in Clon- ectery, glebe 7 acres, half a mile from the ruins of the old church; in Ballyscalloge, 5½ acres, within half a mile of the ruins of the old church; each glebe distant about three miles from Kil- cock.	The rev. Matthew Peter is resident in Kilcock; his salary is 75 l. per ann.	If these parishes were dissolved, or held sepa- rately, Kilcock, Clon- ectery and Ballyscalloge, would each be too small to afford a comfortable subsistence to an incum- bent.
No church.	No glebe-house. There is glebe amounting in all to 14 acres, in five parishes, they are not contiguous, but not farther distant from each other than they are from the ruins of the old church. They are ge- nerally about half a mile from the ruins of the old church.	The benefice is va- cant. disincorporated from Kilcock, &c. by the pre- sent bishop, with avowed purpose (see return 1807) of recommending an union by act of council, between it and the con- tinguous parish of Finsboro, by which the condition of each would be best im- proved, and the welfare of the parish- ioners of both best served. In the par- ticular cases of this parish and that of Finsboro adjoining, the best mode of re- medying the evil of non-residence, would be their union by act of council.	Ballinacra is too poor to afford comfort to a re- sident incumbent; it was dissolved from Kilcock, &c. by the pre- sent bishop, with avowed purpose (see return 1807) of recommending an union by act of council, between it and the con- tinguous parish of Finsboro, by which the condition of each would be best im- proved, and the welfare of the parish- ioners of both best served. In the par- ticular cases of this parish and that of Finsboro adjoining, the best mode of re- medying the evil of non-residence, would be their union by act of council. Should these parishes ever be dissolved, with- out a re-union with some other parishes, they will each be too poor to afford a comfortable subsistence to their respective in- cumbents.
One new and hand- some church, in com- plete repair.	There is no glebe-house in either parish; there is reason to presume, that a glebe of two acres and an half in Belshen, is withheld from the incumbent. There are no glebe lands, except as above stated, and if the piece of ground above- mentioned be truly glebe; it is adjacent to the ruins of Belshen church, and within four miles of the church of Donadea. In this case there is a speedy prospect of procuring a glebe and glebe- house in the parish of Donadea for the incum- bent, in which he will be well pleased to reside.	The rev. Mr. Hackett, the curate, has a salary of 75 l. per ann. and the glebe-house, offices, and garden, are as- signed to him, being kept in repair by the sagrestator.	If dissolved, the livings of Killybegs and Clon- ectery would be too poor to afford comfortable subsistence to their re- spective resident incum- bents; and it would be difficult to support Clon- ectery without the addition of Mainstown and Belshen at the least.
There is one church in this benefice, viz. in Clane; it is in good repair.	There is a glebe-house in the parish of Clane; there are 19 acres of glebe.

9.	1. 2.	In this Benefice of KILL there are two denominations: KILL - - - a vicarage - - } LYONS - - - a rectory - - } (contiguous) acres. KILL - - - - - 2,708 LYONS - - - - - 272	The rev. John Warburton; he resides in the parish; the duties are discharged by himself, assisted by the rev. Henry Revell, his curate. There are places or townlands in the incumbent has not cure of souls; and where has right to tithes in one day designated, another day affirmed, but no possession given.	It is not known when these parishes became united. It is said, with probability, that they were united by an act of council, before the records of the privy council were burned. The singularity of the diocese shows, that they have been usually included in one instrument, or patent of power by the Crown. Therefore, if it be such, is very proper.
10.	1.	Name - - - a vicarage - -	The rev. James Slater, resident in the parish of NAME; the duties are discharged by himself, the incumbent has cure of souls in all parts of this benefice, but there are appropriate to it the rectorial tithes of the parish of KERRIG otherwise CARRIG, in which he has no cure of souls, there being a vicar.
11.	1. 2.	Two denominations: FORNAUGHTS - a perpetual curacy } HAINSTOWN - a vicarage - - } (Contiguous) acres. In FORNAUGHTS - - 383 HAINSTOWN - - - 242	The rev. James Slater; he has cure of souls in all parts of this benefice; he resides in the glebe-house of NAME, not two miles distant from FORNAUGHTS; there is no official house of residence in either; the duties are discharged by himself.
12.	1.	BODENSTOWN - a vicarage - -	Rev. Henry Boyd; resides in the parish of BODENSTOWN, in the diocese of Down; the want of a house of residence, the poverty of the benefice, and his very advanced age; the incumbent has cure of souls in all parts of this benefice, the duties are performed by the rev. James Slater.
13.	1. 2.	There are two denominations in this Benefice. TIMAHOE - - - a rectory - - } BALLYMACWILLIAM - a rectory - - } Not contiguous, by a great many miles.	Rev. Patrick Sanders; he resides in the parish of STRAFORD, in the diocese of Dublin; the incumbent has cure of souls in all parts of his benefice; the duties are discharged by the rev. Newcomen Whitaker, rector of DUNDRA and BELRAHAN, in the vicinity.	The incumbent holds them by virtue of one instrument of presentation by the Crown, upon which he was instituted in the year 1766. This union should be dissolved, and TIMAHOE should be permanently united with N° 8; for which I have there, and in my former report in 1806, given special reasons.
14.	1. 2. 3.	There are three denominations in the Union of KERRIG alias CARRIG: KERRIG alias CARRIG - a vicarage } BRIDECHURCH - - - a rectory } DOWNGS - - - a vicarage } The parishes are contiguous. acres. CARRIG - - - - - 5,442 BRIDECHURCH - - - 1,892 DOWNGS - - - - - 1,226	Rev. Simon Digby; the incumbent has cure of souls in all parts of his benefice; he resides in Dublin, permitted to retire, being very aged; the duties are discharged by the rev. Thomas Gooden, his curate, residing at NAME, in the vicinity.	They were united episcopally in the year 1764. There is no reason why this union should be dissolved. The rectorial tithes of KERRIG alias CARRIG, are appropriate to NAME. The rectorial tithes of DOWNGS are appropriate to KILROCK, and BRIDECHURCH is chiefly pasture, yielding very little tithes; accordingly the profits of the cures are inconsiderable.

5. No. of CHURCHES, Whether in repair, and in which parishes they stand.	6. GLEBE HOUSES, In what parish, what Glebe Lands; Whether contiguous, or how far removed from each others, or from the Church, or site of old Church.	7. CURATES SALARIES, In cases of permanent non- residence of the Incumbent, and whether resident or not.	8. LEVINOS Of a sufficient amount to afford or elicit in the Incumbent
There was a very old church in Kill, now taken down to be re- built and much enlarged.	There is a glebe-house in the parish of Kill; there are of glebe 15 a. 1 r. 35 p. in five parcels (so indicates the registry) not immediately con- tiguous, the incumbent knows of three only, viz. two acres, whereon the glebe-house stands; five acres contiguous; six acres, three miles distant from the church of Kill, at a place called Clo- nagless.	The rev. Henry Bo- well, resides in the pa- rish of Kill, and has a salary of 75 l . per ann.
One church, in good repair, in the parish of Nana.	There is an ancient glebe-house in Nana, where the incumbent resides, to which he has made liberal additions; a glebe of 33 a. 2 r. 14 p. in three parcels, so contiguous as to be convenient for occupation; about half a mile distant from the church at Nana, there is a very small glebe ad- joined to the house, on three sides; the church- yard on the fourth.	—	—
No church in either.	No glebe-house. No glebe lands	—	This union should be continued.
No church.	No glebe-house. Eight acres and an half of glebe contiguous, contiguous to the site of the old church.	Out of personal respect and friendship, the rev. James Slator discharges the duties of this parish graciously.	Bodenstown is too poor to afford a comfortable substance to a resident incumbent. See addi- tional observations.
No church in either parish.	There is no glebe-house within these parishes. In Limshoe, there are 9 a. 2 r. 25 p. of glebe, not contiguous, are more than half a mile distant from each other, being in four parcels; the first is about half a mile from the ruins of the old church in Ballymacwilliam; 15 a. & 39 p. very near to the ruins of the old church, and contiguous.	The rev. Newcomen Whitlock discharges the duties of Turinchoo gra- tuitously. In Ballymac- william, the rev. Henry Bell discharges the du- ties of curate; salary, 10 l .	When dismissed from Ballymacwilliam, Turin- choo will be too poor to afford a comfortable sub- sistence to the resident in- cumbent.—See N° 8. Should Ballymacwilliam be continued in grass for pasture, it will also be too poor to afford a comfortable subsistence to a resident incumbent.—See N° 35. See additional observations.
There is one church in this union, in the parish of Carragh, in satisfactory repair.	No glebe-house. No glebe lands; it is said some glebe is withheld in Dowlings.	The rev. Mr. Gordon; salary 75 l .	If dismissed, none of them will afford a com- fortable subsistence to its resident incumbent. The best remedy for non-re- sidence in this case, would be to procure a glebe and a glebe house in any of these parishes, but that cannot at pre- sent be accomplished.

15.	1. 2. 3.	Three denominations: Kilnagoe - rectory and vicarage Rathernon - rectory and vicarage Lallimore - a prebend in the ca- thedral church of Kildare, not a member of the chapter - a rectory (These parishes are contiguous.) acres. Kilnagoe - - - 4,741 Rathernon - - - 724 Lallimore - - - 300	Rev. Arthur Preston; he is dean of Limerick, and there resides; the house is barely fit for the residence of the curate; the incumbent has care of souls in all parts of his bene- fice. The duties are discharged by the rev. Mathias Crowley.	Three parishes have, for a great length of time, been held in epis- copal union; they were re-united for the present incumbent in the year 1809. The union should be continued.
16.		One denomination; called Fogheallen - - - a rectory	Rev. George Houston; he lives at present at Newtown Stewart, county Tyrone, the want of a proper site whereon to build a glebe-house; the incumbent has care of souls in all parts of his benefice. The duties are discharged by the rev. Henry Bayly. It is to be observed in this, as in similar cases, that the non- residence of the incumbent is not permitted, but the very nature of the case compels his absence, very much against his inclination.
17.	1. 2.	There are two commonly-accepted denominations in this benefice: Moorstown Biffer - - a rectory Old Connell - - - a rectory If they be separate parishes, they are contiguous. acres. Moorstown Biffer - - 1,402 Old Connell - - - 1,580	Rev. Chas' Easton; his residence at present not known; no reason has been assigned by the incumbent. The incumbent has care of souls in all parts of his benefice. The duties are discharged by the rev. William Car.	The registry of the diocese is silent on this head, and the incum- bent did not appear at the last visitation, being, as it is supposed, out of the realm. If it be a union, episcopally or otherwise, it ought to be continued.
18.	1. 2. 3.	In this benefice there are three denominations: Ladytown - - - a vicarage Great Connell - - a vicarage Sherlockstown - - a rectory Ladytown and Great Connell are contiguous; with respect to Sher- lockstown, not contiguous.—See observations on Bodestown, N° 14. Ladytown, 2,330 acres; the incumbent enjoys, of this parish, the tithes of hay, wood and lamb. Great Connell 3,385 acres; the townland of Great Connell only, consisting of 940 acres, yields tithes to the incumbent. Sherlockstown 763 acres; this yields all tithes; but see N° 14, called Bodestown.	Rev. Anthony Jones; he resides within the parish in a hired house; the incumbent has care of souls in all parts of his benefice. The duties are discharged by himself.	The present incum- bent was collated to this episcopal union in the year 1787. I have given my reasons for discon- tinuing this union when occasion may be, with respect to Sherlock- stown, in N° 14. The union of the other two is very proper.
19.	1. 2.	There are here two denominations: Kilashoe - rectory and vicarage (consolidated in 1768.) Ballymanney - - - a rectory They are not contiguous, Bally- manney being 3 or 4 miles apart; Kilashoe 3,438 acres, Ballymanney 550 acres. N. B.—Not annexed to the church rates.	Rev. Arthur M^r Guire; he re- sides usually in the parish of Saint Thomas, in Dublin; he is rector of the above-named parish. There is no fit place of residence to be pro- posed within the parish, either for him or for his curate; the incum- bent has care of souls in all parts of his benefice; but there are no ap- propriations from Ballymanney for spiri- tual comfort.	The present incum- bent was collated in the year 1794, by the bishop of that day. It would be difficult to find a proper union for Bally- manney, which was, it may be presumed, the reason for attaching it to this benefice; it seems more properly an adjunct to the nearest parish of Great Carr well, but even there it would not be absolutely contiguous.

In case of parishes not residence of the Incumbent, and whether resident or not.	8. LAYING Of parishes and parishes containing parishes Incumbents
One church in Kilmagee, a mean building externally, in substantial repair; internally, scarcely furnished.	There is a glebe-house in Rathernon; there are 23 a. 3 r. 33 p. 16 eleven parcels; there are 8 a. 3 r. 30 p. adjoining the glebe-house, the rest are dispersed, and distant from the parish church of Kilmagee, from half a mile to 2 miles, and similarly situated with respect to each other.	The rev. Matthew Crawley has the use of the glebe-house, offices and garden, with a salary of 75 l . per ann.	It is apprehended that in case of a dissolution of these parishes, Kilmagee might suffice as a single benefice, but it would be very difficult to find a proper site for the other two parts, and in this point of view I return Rathernon a rectory and vicarage, as also Lathmore a parson, as singly or conjointly too poor in value to afford a comfortable subsistence to one or two resident incumbents.
No church.	No glebe-house; there are 5 a. 3 r. 33 p. of all glebe in 5 parcels; 4 of these are destitute of water, and half a mile distant from the ruins of the old church, not contiguous, but very little removed from each other; the fifth parcel is scarcely sufficient for a glebe-house, cartilage and garden, but it is contiguous to the ruins of the old church.	The allowance to the rev. Henry Hayley, who resides at Rathernon, 3 miles distant, is 1 l . 1 s . 6 d . annually.	See additional observations.
No church.	There is no glebe-house; there is no glebe.	—	The best remedy for non-residence in this case, would be to rebuild the church, and to procure a glebe whereon a glebe-house might be built.
There is one church at great Connell, repaired to good repair after its destruction in the rebellion of 1798.	No glebe-house; no glebe lands.	—	Whenever a dissolution shall happen of the members of this benefice, if Ladytown and Great Connell should remain united, they will be insufficient to afford a comfortable subsistence to resident incumbents. I return Ladytown, Great Connell, Sherlockstown, as too small in value to afford a comfortable subsistence to a resident incumbent.
There is one church in the parish of Kilmagee. This small church is large, internally, clean and neat, but it is extremely damp, and complained of by the principal proprietors, as injurious to health, in the winter season.	No glebe-house; no glebe. N. B.—There is some hope that glebe may be procured.	Rev. John Harrison, residing at Naas, within one mile and a half of this church; salary 75 l . per ann. The incumbent, or curate, would doubtless reside here, were there opportunity, by the purchase of glebe to build a house.	—

William Bourne, resides, the incumbent has care of souls in all parts of his benefice; the duties are discharged by himself with the assistance of the rev. Henry Bayly, also residing in the parish.
22.	1.	Three denominations.	The rev. Thomas Tisdall; he is a prebendary of the cathedral church of Saint Patrick's Dublin, but his place of residence is not known to the Bishop of Kildare. The incumbent has care of souls in all parts of his benefice; the duties are discharged by the rev. Henry Bayly, residing within three miles of this union.	The present incumbent was instituted in the year 1794; the present union should be continued.

23.	1.	Two denominations: Dunsey - - a vicarage - -	The rev. Joshua D'Arcy, resident in the parish of Locka; the incumbent has care of souls in all parts of his benefice; the duties are discharged by himself.	From these were deducted upon the collation of this incumbent, in the year 1809, the parishes of Kibbings and Wallinstown; two new episcopal unions, were then formed, of which more shall be said under N ^o 29, because this circumstance is connected with a representation made in the House of Commons in Parliament on the accession, when this report was moved for by an honorable member. There is no reason at present to doubt the propriety of this union, unforeseen circumstances may at some future time lead to another combination.

26.	1.	One denomination: Harrestown, a prebend in the cathedral church of Kildare; not a member of the chapter; also a rectory.	The rev. Charles Lindsay, in his parish of Monistown in the diocese of Dublin. There is no house of residence here; the incumbent has care of souls in all parts of his benefice, the duties are discharged by the rev. Charles Moore, rector of Harrestown adjacent.

CURATES SALARIES, In cases of permanent non- residence of the Incumbents, and whether resident or not.	8. LIVINGS (Of a value too small to afford comfort to the Incumbent.)
There is one church at Carrullaway, in excel- lent repair.	There is an excellent glebe-house here, to which liberal additions have been made by the present incumbent, at his own expense. Ten acres contiguous, and within half a mile of the parish church.	—	—
A church in Rath- gan, in excellent repair, in addition to which a tower and spire are now erecting by private sub- scription.	There is an excellent glebe-house newly built by the present incumbent, assisted by a grant or loan from the First Fruits, and by an addition of his own money, much exceeding the legal charge upon his successor. There are sq. a. r. 16 p. of glebe land contiguous to the glebe-house, and within a quarter of a mile of the parish church.	Rev. Henry Bayly, curate, and resident, sa- lary 75 l.	—
No church.	There is no glebe-house in any of these pa- rishes; none that can be called a glebe, about three quarters of an acre, including the old ruined church and church-yard of Pollardstown. There are no hopes of procuring glebe in this union by purchase, unless the law shall be modified, by which the grants of the Board of First Fruits are regulated.	The rev. Henry Bayly, non-resident; has a sa- lary of 17 l. 13 s. an- nually.	The easy remedy for non-residence in this and other parishes, even, will be suggested in my concluding and general observations; separately or in union these three parishes do not afford a conducible substance to an incumbent intend- ing to be resident; Pol- lardstown, Thomastown, Dunmurry.
No church.	There is a new glebe-house erecting, which the incumbent has been at large charge, beyond the sums advanced to him by the Board of First Fruits by way of loan, and beyond any sum which may be repayable by his successor. There is glebe of 18 a. r. 16 p. in five parcels, not very convenient, but near enough for occupation; one parcel about three acres, at the distance of four miles, adjoins the ruins of the church of Denmurry; the other four parcels are very near to the ruins of the church of Lock. To this title I must subjoin the fact, that the Board of First Fruits have granted the usual sum allowed for building country churches, where no particular circum- stances require a departure from a fixed scale; building materials are scarce and dear in the county Kildare; and the parishioners are too poor to add any thing to the fund at present, which therefore remains in the treasury to be applied under better circumstances.	—	—
One church, in excel- lent repair, with the exception of the belfry.	No glebe-house. No glebe.	—	—
No church.	No glebe-house. No glebe.	—	—
No church.	There is no glebe-house. There are no glebe lands.	Curate's salary 13 l. 13 s.	The best remedy for non-residence, in this case, would be the pur- chase of a glebe, and then the erection of a church would follow.

Walterstown - a rectory - 861 a (contiguous)	The rev. W ^m Cox, he resides in the city of Kildare, three miles from this town, to which there is an excellent road. The incumbent is surrogate of the diocese, and by an act of parliament 48 Geo. 3, chapter 66, section 15, is exempted from any residence in his benefice. This incumbent has cure of souls in all parts of his benefice; the duties are discharged by himself.	The union was formed on the collation of the present incumbent, in the year 1809. This union should be made permanent by act of council.
28.	1.	One denomination: Ballyox - - - a rectory - -	Rev. William Tew; he resides at present in the diocese of Dublin; the bishop has not thought it fit to call him into residence. The incumbent has cure of souls in all parts of his benefice. The rev. Henry Annesley, a gentleman residing in the parish, has hitherto discharged the occasional duties.	—

The incumbent has cure of souls in all parts of his benefice; he discharges the duties himself.	They were united by act of council, in the year 1795; the union should be continued.
30.	1.	One denomination: Castropetre, alias Monasterorch - N. B.—The modern name is Edenderry, it is a prebend of the cathedral church of Kildare; not a member of the chapter, also a vicarage. The rectory is an ecclesiastical appropriation, a vicarage being here endowed, it is a sinecure.	The rev. John Jones, vicar; he resides in the parish. The incumbent vicar has cure of souls in all parts of his benefice; the duties are discharged by himself, but being a firm, with occasional assistance.	—
31.	1.	One denomination: Kilteany - - - a vicarage - -	The rev. John Baldwin, in the town of Mount Mellick; no possible means of residence. The incumbent has cure of souls in all parts of his benefice.	—

Edward Huxton, residing in the adjoining parish of Philipstown.	—

5. No of CHURCHES, Whether in repair, and in which parishes they stand.	6. GLEBE-HOUSES, In what parishes, what Glebe Lands, Whether contiguous, or how far removed from each other, or from the Church, or site of old Church.	7. CURATES SALARIES, In cases of provided resi- dencies of the Incumbents, and whether resident or not.	8. LIVINGS Of a value too small to afford comfort to the Incumbents.
No church.	There is no glebe-house in these parishes. There are no glebe lands in possession of the incumbent, within any of these parishes. When Christopher Bagot, esq. resided in Narney, he annually paid to the last and present incumbent of Narney the sum of 5 l . (taking a receipt) as and for the rent of a glebe in Narney, of which the size was and still remains unknown to the incumbent. Colonel Bagot, the representative of his father Christopher, (who is still living and may be referred to) has refused either to pay this annual acknowledgment, or to point out the glebe.	—	If dismantled, Narney Kildangan, and Walters-town, will severally be insufficient to afford a comfortable subsistence to resident incumbents. See additional observations.
No church, the desecration of the times has obstructed the design of building a church here, on a very old site, there is a grant of the Board of First Fruits for this purpose, but not issued.	There is no glebe-house. Nineteen acres of land were some time since purchased by the present bishop, with the means afforded by the Board of First Fruits, for the use and residence of the incumbent. This glebe is within one mile and a half of the ruins of the old church, where shortly a new church will be erected.	The rev. Henry Annesley is resident curate, with an annual salary of 25 l .	The evil of non-residence in this parish also, will soon be remedied by the erection of a church and glebe-house, and the consequent residence of the rector.
One church, in good repair, it is in the parish of Ballynoman.	There is no glebe-house. No glebe land in the possession of the incumbent.	—	—
One church, in excellent repair.	No glebe-house. No glebe lands.	—	—
No church.	No glebe-house. No glebe lands.	Vacant.	Kilbenny is of a value too small to afford to a resident incumbent the means of comfort. The number of titheable acres in this vicarage are stated to be 300 profitable, and of unprofitable bog about 1,000 acres; should these be drained and cultivated, there may be encouragement, after the lapse of half a century, to purchase a glebe, and by the further assistance of the Board of First Fruits, to erect a glebe-house simultaneously with the restoration of the ruined church.
No church.	No glebe-house. No glebe lands.	In this case, as in several others where there are no churches, the occasional duties are so inconsiderable as to reduce the pecuniary consideration for discharging them altogether below the eye of the law.	This living is too small in value to afford to a resident incumbent a comfortable subsistence, since it is evident that care of souls cannot be effectually discharged without churches and residence; this case will be included in the general observations I am to make concerning purchase of glebe.

One church, small, but in excellent repair, in the parish of Pri- msh.	No glebe-house; no glebe lands	The curate's salary is 75 l. per annum.	In my former report, in 1860, I recommended an union of this be- nefice with the con- tiguous parish of Bally- nasoduffham, the value of each is pretty nearly alike in the present value of tithes, they might together be worth 400 l. per annum; Ballynasoduffham has of glebe 13 a. & 50 p. , and is in the patronage of the crown; the patronage of Primsh, except for the best farm which is in the power of the incumbent, belongs to John Wakely, esq. of Ballyshirley.
One church in pretty good repair, in the pa- rish of Clonsant.	No glebe-house; no glebe lands.	—	—
No church.	No glebe-house; no glebe.	This case will be in- cluded under my gene- ral observations, with respect to the curate's salary. See my com- m. in N ^o 34.	—
One church, in pretty good repair.	There is a new glebe-house, built by grant of the Commissioners of First Fruits; there is a glebe of 3 a. 1 r. 15 p. contiguous very near the church.	—	This is an augmented benefice by prime Boulter's fund, admi- nistered by the Board of First Fruits; should it lose this aid, it must be reckoned among the number of those benefices which are too small in value to afford confort to a resident incumbent.
One church, in pretty good repair, in the pa- rish of Kilsallierney alias Fidlopstown.	There is no glebe-house; there are no glebe lands belonging to the vicar.	—	—
No church; there is a grant for building one, but some difficulties have prevented its ap- plication.	There is a new glebe-house, newly built by the Board of First Fruits, in this parish; there are in this benefice glebes of 7 a. & 2 r. in the whole, they are situated at a little distance from each other; the house is built on the most considerable of them. It is difficult to state here which was the site of the old church; there appear to have been three sites, and it is not quite determined on which to place the new church, to be erected by grant of the Board of First Fruits.	—	—
Two churches, viz. one lately rebuilt, with the assistance of a loan from the First Fruits, in Gesshill, and in fine condition; another the chapel of Kilsallierney, upon which large sums of money have been ex- pended, and it is in in- different repair, but progressively improv- ing, being a large and very ancient building.	There is a glebe-house at Gesshill; there are two glebes, viz. one of 68 a. 3 r. 14 p. at Gess- hill, contiguous, one of 23 a. & 50 p. at Kilsallierney, contiguous; the glebe of Gesshill surrounds the house, and is rather more than a quarter of a mile from the parish church, the glebe of Kilsallierney is not distant from the chapel.	The salary of the curate is 75 l. per ann. he is resident.	This benefice wants augmentations, there are within it 4,500 acres by estimation; and its income is not more than 80 l. per annum.

The parish has been episcopally united for a great length of time; the present incumbent was instituted in the year 1804; if the church were properly attended, there would be no objection to the continuance of this episcopal union; it is too much to expect that parishioners should travel from one extremity nearly to the other, to be present at divine service in this most obscurely placed church.

Three churches, on which large sums of money have been ex- pended; the materials here are very bad; their present condition cannot be called good, but the attention of all persons concerned is awake to the circumstances that have occasioned a pre- mature decay, which will be redressed; one church at Rosmalia; one church, or rather chapel, at Mount Melick, and a church or chapel at Clonsilla, in the parish of Rensmore.	There is a glebe-house at Kilmessagh, alias Carrick, in the parish of Rosmalia; there are in all 463 a. 1 r. 6 p. of pasture, arable, boggy and rocky mountain, land of little value, with unde- fined commonage; Carrick glebe, 170 a. 3 r. 4 p. within half-a-mile of Rosmalia church; Cappa, 7 a. & 1 r. two and a half miles from d ^o ; Bally- kilmurry, with commonage, 50 acres, three and a half miles from d ^o ; Kilmessagh, 183 a. & 35 p. mountain, with commonage, 93 acres; church- yard of Kilmessagh, 1 r. & 18 p. about six miles and three quarters from Rosmalia church. One church, now; it was built by private sub- scription, with a small loan to finish the build- ing, by the Board of First Fruits; with the exception of some damp occasioned by the defective con- struction of its spire, it is in excellent condition.	There is no glebe house, there are 25 a. & 2 r. of glebe near the old church, now destroyed, and two miles distant from the new, where there is no water, five miles also from the town.	—	50 l. per ann. which was augmented with a like sum by the Board of First Fruits; the addition of a glebe and glebe- house, when obtained by means granted by the Board, will rescue this chapelry from the list of benefices of too small value to afford comfort to resident incumbents; at present, under this head, I must set down Clonsilla.
One church or chapel, repaired by private sub- scription, and in good condition; it is in the town of Portlington, parish of Lea.	—	—	This is not a benefice, but it is of great value to the inhabitants of Por- tlington; its endow- ment only 40 l. per ann.
One church or chapel in the town of Portar- lington and parish of Lea, lately wholly re- built by private subscrip- tion; it is in excellent repair, with the excep- tion of a slight defect in the construction of the spire.	—	—	This, like the last, is an endowed chapelry, with 40 l. per annum, to which the Board of First Fruits have added 60 l. per annum; it is of great value to the inhabitants; there is no house of resi- dence attached to either of these chapels; were the bounty of the Board of First Fruits extended to both in augmentation, and in purchase of glebe-houses, a good object would thereby be ob- tained; but as they do not strictly come under the denomination of benefices, I cannot here return them.
One church at Bally- cowan, alias Ardee, in excellent condition, though very damp; it is built on the top of a con- siderable and steep emi- nence, not far from the southern extremity of a benefice, consisting of nearly 10,000 acres of pretty good land.	There is a glebe-house in Ballycowan alias Ardee; and there are 26 a. 3 r. 23 p. adjoining the glebe-house and the church.	—	—

OBSERVATIONS:

DIOCESEAN SCHOOL.—Rev. Joseph Harrison, master, situated at Nass, wherein he resides, discharging the duties, with a house fit for the purpose but too much circumscribed in cartilage, which it would be advisable to augment. He enjoys a salary of 8*o*l. per annum, allocated by the present bishop and clergy of the diocese of Kildare.

ENGLISH SCHOOL.—Endowed by Brevinty, Earl of Galway, for poor English settlers; salary 2*o*l. per annum; a plot of ground, with their cottages, value by the year 1*o*l. 3*o* all paid. The school not taught; the master admonished.

FRENCH SCHOOL.—Endowed by the same for poor French settlers salary 1*o*l. per annum; vacant; no one qualified, and no poor scholars.

ADDITIONAL OBSERVATIONS RESPECTING PARTICULAR BENEFICES.

N.B.—The Numbers refer to the Benefices.

14. Here refer to No. 18, and there it will be found that

In Sherlockstown there are	-	-	-	-	783	rectorial.
And in Bodinstown	-	-	-	-	1,023	vicarial.
Making together	-	-	-	-	1,786	acres

with a glebe of eight acres and a half in the latter. Sherlockstown is not contiguous to the other two parishes with which it is held, and not assessed to the church rate. These are contiguous. A new glebe-house may be purchased for Sherlockstown, and an addition made to that of Bodinstown. These parishes being then united by Act of Council, a benefice may be formed affording a comfortable subsistence to a resident incumbent. Bodinstown, at present, is too small in value to afford a comfortable subsistence to a resident incumbent.

15. The best mode of remedying the evil of non-residence in the parish of Tinsahoe, is to unite it for ever with the parish of Ballinac, No. 6, in this Report; and as to Ballymacwilliam, the best remedy will be to build a glebe-house and call a new incumbent (upon a voidance) to reside there. Should the parish then be inadequate to the support of a resident incumbent, it may be united with Frinck alias Ballyharley and Cooker, No. 33, which was proposed in my former Report in 1806, because there is no glebe in that union; and it will not be difficult at this juncture of time to procure the consent of all parties, because the rev. William Walsh, the incumbent of Frinck and Cooker, has also the next presentation to this Union, which is of equal value with Ballymacwilliam; and the united value of the two benefices does not exceed four hundred and fifty, or in the best times at most five hundred pounds by the year.
18. Every thing has been done by the Board of First Fruits, to assist the bishop and the incumbent in remedying the evil of non-residence in this parish. The church has been for time immemorial a ruin, and the site is now become inconvenient to the best inhabited parts of the parish. A change of site, and the purchase of a fit glebe for the incumbent, would in this parish be the best mode of furthering the object, and the bishop is not without hope that this, with patience, may be accomplished.
19. The best remedy for non-residence, in this particular case, would be, to furnish the incumbent with a church, a glebe, and house of residence, in the manner provided by law, which cannot at present be done.

By the death of an aged clergyman, the Episcopal Union of Kilmacogue, No. 15, of this Report, came to the disposal of the bishop, and for the advantage of his diocese he procured a valuable of the very magnificent episcopal manse of Lacka, Dooey, Wallinstown, and Kildargra, by collating its incumbent to the vacant benefice. He added the prebend and rectory of Nursey, then also void, to the parishes parishes of Wallerstown and Kildangan, where there was a church in repeated repair, thus constituting one benefice of 2,647 acres. Lacka, a rectory of 3,156, and Donny, a vicarage of 1,641, in the whole containing 4,797 acres, were then reunited for the purpose of erecting a church and glebe-house in the former, every one of these five parishes being at that time destitute of resident incumbents or curates. The reverend William Cox, surrogate of the diocese, and canon residentiary of Kildare, residing within three miles of Nursey, and in fact nearer to that parish than any other clergyman of the jurisdiction, was collated to this new union with Nursey; and until the very old church of Kildangan fell down suddenly into irreparable ruin, he duly discharged the duties of this benefice. No glebe could be procured till the owner of an estate in Wallerstown should be of age; and in expectation of this acquisition, it was agreed between the landed proprietor of Kildangan parish and the bishop, that he would in such an event give a site for a new church in Wallerstown, in a place central to the union and having the advantage of convenient roads. This was accordingly set out, and after many delays a glebe was duly valued and accepted by the incumbent and bishop; but the conveyance was obstructed by the subsequent marriage of the noble owner, who had not reserved any power to sell in fee simple, or to make a leasehold tenure to the purchaser sufficient in law. Under these circumstances, the incumbent could not reside. The circumstances antecedent to this disappointment had been in their progress laid before the Board of First Fruits, and a grant of 500*l.* was made by them to the bishop, for the purpose of erecting a church in the new site of Wallerstown, which sum was to be issued from the Treasury, when all legal restrictions and difficulties should be overcome. Had a glebe been procured, a house would also have been erected, and the incumbent was ready to hold Kildangan by a separate title, or having such compensation, to surrender it totally to the bishop for another disposition, with some small parishes contiguous to it, by which the church establishment might be further improved. This scheme was rendered abortive by the loss of the above mentioned glebe; and in February 1819, the bishop, in the Board of First Fruits, moved the disappropriation of the grant, since it could not be legally applied; and gave notice to the donor of the church site in Wallerstown, of the failure of the measure. It is proper here to add, that no private contributions were ever offered or solicited for the furtherance of these objects, because this case has been strongly enough commented upon by the diurnal press, in reporting a supposed conversation in the Commons House of Parliament. The bishop and the incumbent have been severely censured, it is said, upon the authority of a gentleman of Nursey, conversing with a member of that Honourable House. There are now many excellent persons who believe that the bishop, having a sufficient sum in his hands for the purpose of erecting a church, neglected to appropriate it to its legitimate object; and being related or connected with the incumbent, a wealthy parson, had conceived at his own deviation of duty. The bishop is neither related to nor connected with the incumbent in any way, excepting those which are incident to his station and to the common civilities of life; and no accusation in form has been made to him, by which he might be authorized to proceed to the correction of any such alleged deviation from parochial duty. The incumbent who, on his part, long felt the weight of this person's calumnies, invited investigation; but no accuser was found, except in such a place as precluded him from defence. The reverend Mr. Cox has already been stated in this Report to live at Kildare, where he enjoys, as canon residentiary of the cathedral church, his dividend with the rest, amounting to 38*l.* per annum. The fees of his office, which by law permit his non-residence, are inconsiderable; and he has no other ecclesiastical income save that of this very benefice, the extent of which sufficiently evinces that it cannot exceed a bare competency. He will reside whenever the opportunity shall offer, because he can as easily discharge the duty of surrogate, living in his benefice, as at Kildare.

PARTICULAR OBSERVATIONS.

ARTICLE 5.

IT is presumed that the existing laws are sufficient to enforce the residence of spiritual persons; but it may be far at the same time to remark, that the proper forms for procedure are still wanting as an appendix to statute 48 George 3, chapter 66.

Non-residence, it will appear from the foregoing enumeration of benefices, may be traced chiefly to vicarages which these laws do not contemplate. There can be no residence where no means are afforded; and and the legislature of this period of time, as well as in former years, has with much liberality, espoused to remove this great impediment to the spread of the Reformed Church of England and Ireland.

It may be proper therefore here to note the several particular means by which the pious intentions of individuals, and the bounty of the King in Parliament, as administered by the Commissioners of First Fruits and Tithes in Ireland, may be carried into effect by the purchase of glebes; this done, a few practical observations cannot be thought superfluous in an inquiry like the present, when the opinion of a Diocesan, founded on experience, is not voluntarily obtruded, but specially demanded.

Glebes then may be acquired, as the law now stands.

First. By endowment.

Second. As incumbent, purchasing land in the character of glebe, may charge his successor with two-thirds of its cost; and the next successors may, in like manner, be charged on a diminishing scale, till the whole sum is repaid. It is here to be noted, that this provision was made by the Act 10th William 3, chapter 6.

No aid of Parliament was then intended; and it may now be a matter of consideration, whether the new principles of the loan for building glebe-houses may not be made applicable in some measure to modern times of this kind, when livings are of too great annual value, to be assisted by a considerable free gift.

Third. Persons restrained by family settlements from alienating lands, may nevertheless set out portions of their estates (not being demesne) and the same being in due form valued by a jury; the best rent of the current time being thus ascertained, glebe may be acquired, and the rent thus formed will remain a charge on the benefice for ever.

Fourth. The commissioners of the Board of First Fruits, &c. may purchase tithes and glebe-ground in fee simple, or in leasehold tenure, by three lives, renewable for ever, and thencewith endow the poorer benefices.

Since the year 1804 no glebe lands have been acquired to the diocese of Kildare, by virtue of the three conditions above enumerated, and only one by the Fourth.

Family restrictions, as stated in the Third condition, almost universally had the nobility and gentry of this diocese. The measure has totally failed. It cannot be supposed, that tenants for life, under such circumstances, are reluctant to afford the means by which the Clergy may effectually be encouraged to residence; and without inquiring further into their disabilities, it will be reasonable to look for a cause of this failure in the nature of the measure itself, particularly connected as it is with considerations sufficient to influence the legislature.

The design of purchasing glebe is at least two fold. First, to afford means for residence; second, to assist the poorer benefices by an accession of comfort.

In order to assist their consciences, the jury impanelled must ascertain the best rent for which a peasant would rationally make himself responsible with a view to profit. To convey land on such conditions to clergymen, cannot be deemed a boon, and it may be a burthen.

As the law of free gift to the poorer benefices now stands, this condition, in point of comparison, constitutes a vast inequality between them. The person who conveys in fee simple or in leasehold, reserving an inconsiderable portion of rent to himself, meets the wishes of all parties concerned; and the glebe thus procured, becoming an accession of value to the incumbent, can be enjoyed without care in cultivation, and without anxiety to reproduce the annual accruing rent.

One very simple remedy seems applicable to this case. When the Commissioners of the First Fruits approve the title of the seller, the purchase-money, derived from the liberal parliamentary fund, is instantly paid.

This Board of Trustees are by law possessed of money in the funds, the interest whereof is by statute applicable to special purposes. The trustees are doubtless worthy; should, in times to come, the families under restrictive settlement be inclined to set apart land for glebe, the poorer clergy will gladly accept accept the preferred means to discharge duties particularly growing out of residence, and if the Bishops of First Fruits were directed to invest the purchase-money in the public funds, and pay the annual interest thereof, as and for the rent paid and reserved for such settled rights, all difficulties would gradually vanish; and in the diocese of Kildare in particular, such succeeding bishop might witness the success of his endeavours to obviate the accumulating evils of non-residence. Having already noted the case of the more abundantly provided benefices that are destitute of glebe, any further remark would here be unnecessary.

TITLE 6.

THE question here proposed seems to intimate a wish, to assist poor parishes with loans for the repair of old and decaying structures, which, in truth, require in many instances an instant expenditure of money, larger than the annual church rates, in reason or in justice to tenants holding expiring leases ought to supply; whatever might have been the full object intended, the bounty allotted to the Commissioners of First Fruits has not been made applicable to the repair of churches; and in the late grant of Parliament, in 1819, the ward repair does not occur. How beneficially, under proper and well defined regulations, such a boon might prove, may be well understood by referring to the numbers 27, article Kildangan, and to 39 Genshill with Killeigh chapel. The church of this extensive parish has been lately seized by loan; the latter can have no loan according to the reserve of the board, because no grants to repair churches or chapels have hitherto been made, without some specific enlargement of the structure, and this chapel is already far too large for its congregation. The omission of this purpose in the last Act of Appropriation, and the reserve on the part of the Board of First Fruits, when the power to grant actually existed, may be fairly questioned. When a bishop is attentive to his duties, he must know the state of the churches committed to his inspection; and he is always, after due experience, able to give to the Board of Commissioners of the First Fruits, &c. such information as shall enable them, on full inquiry, to discriminate between cases, where, on the one hand, a disposition may be evinced in parishes to withhold annual assessments for necessary repairs; and those on the other, in which it shall appear that all reasonable charges have been borne in upholding, though without success, such ancient parish churches as have gradually yielded to the decay of time.

TITLE 7.

THE laws now subsisting, and carefully administered, are sufficient to prevent monies being improperly made by act of Council; but with respect to Episcopal licences pro deservio, it may be proper to revise the statute 3d Geo. II. chap. 11, and to limit the powers therein granted to certain cases, whenever for instance an Episcopal licence has been continued; because upon due trial found to be really proper and expedient, it should officially be so certified by the bishop and archbishop of the province to the Privy Council for confirmation, care being used to guard against lapse in consequence of unavoidable delay.

TITLE 8.

DIOCESAN and parish registers stand protected at present against heedless or wilful negligence in making proper entries, or of corrupt embezzlement and concealment of deeds of record, by the faithful arm of the canon law. Since the time of King Henry the 8th, when a fundamental change was made in the method of charging after quinto post mortem, the annates or first fruits upon bodies corporate and aggregate, many rights beneficial to religion, have been lost to the church, and in particular glebe lands, of which the evidences have been carelessly or fraudulently removed from diocesan registers. This contingency was not guarded against by the restraining statutes 10 and 11 of Charles. To the want of such a guard to the church as the quinto post mortem, which might for such a purpose have substantially been continued by commission issuing from the bishop, and on the vacancy of an archbishoprick, from the Crown, may be attributed the spoliation of the bishoprick of Kildare in particular; and the subsequent alienation of glebe lands, that doubtless then existed, but which are now irrecoverable.

It is here to be remarked, that this clause has no reference to the respectable persons now holding the office of joint register of the diocese of Kildare.

RECAPITULATION AND SUMMARY.

IN THE DIOCESE OF KILDARE are forty-three Benefices with cure of souls, on which are twenty-eight Churches, built or building; on nineteen there are no Churches. The number of Parishes is seventy-two; of the above forty-three Benefices, nineteen are Unions. There are twelve Glebe-houses built or building; thirty-one Benefices without Glebe-houses, twenty of which have no Glebes, or none on which a house could be built with advantage.

Burke; has not cure of souls; not resident; is also dean of Ossory, where he re- sides; his reading and preaching turns in the cathedral of Waterford, performed by a substitute.	The corps of the chancellorship, from its foundation.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS:

THE parish of Kilmorena should not hereafter be united episcopally with the deanery; but if held by the same incumbent, they should be held by family.

Drumcannon.—This union on the next vacancy should be dissolved. Drumcannon and Kilmorena would form a natural union. The three remaining vicarages, Ballymole, Ballymore, and Kilmorena, being of too small value to dissolve, would then form a proper union; particularly as a new church has been lately built in the parish of Ballymole. In the event of this arrangement taking place, I would strongly recommend a glebe to be purchased for the union.

Crook and Kilree, &c.—The unions which were made upon the late vacancy, and consequent dissolution of the former union, were very inconvenient.

In Kil St. Nicholas (the adjoining parish) is the town of Passage, where the greater part of the parishioners frequenting the church reside. To this belongs a glebe of 52 acres, but at a great distance from the residence of these parishioners, and most inconveniently situated for building.

In the parish of Crook is a small glebe of 3 acres, which would be very convenient for a glebe-house for the parish of Kil St. Nicholas. The proper union therefore, would be to unite Kil St. Nicholas with Crook.

I should recommend the purchase of the tithes of the parish of St. John's (part of the corps of the archdeaconry,) which belong to a lay proprietor, Mr. Fox, for the purpose of being united by act of council to the archdeaconry at some future day, which is at present not worth more than 250l. per annum.

It would be advisable to purchase the rectorial tithes of either the parishes of Killes or Rathmoylan, to augment the value of the union, which does not exceed 100l. per annum.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS:

Tallow and Killwaterney.—A church should be built at Killwaterney. If the parish of Killwaterney be sufficient to support an incumbent, this union should be dissolved.

Temple Michael, &c.—The incumbent having lately died, a division of these parishes will of course take place. Temple Michael and Kilrocken will in future form one benefice, being on the west side of the river Blackwater. Kinsalebeg and Laginman being on the east side, will form another.

Donhill.—A new church should be built in this parish, and glebe land purchased.

Stradlinally, &c.—I should recommend a division of these parishes on the next vacancy.

The rectory and vicarage of Kilromansy ought to be perpetually united.

Methill, &c.—A division of these parishes should also take place on a future occasion.

Caher and George St. John Baptist.—These parishes being at least five miles distant from each other, should be dissolved.

Islandinagh.—This entire rectory may very well stand alone; glebe land ought to be (if possible) purchased near the church, and a glebe-house built upon it.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES.

The 1st, Section 6th: Queries the 3d, 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th; all other Queries being answered in the Columns.

Query 1st, Section 6th.—There is by act of Parliament, a sufficient power lodged in the Lord Lieutenant and Privy Council, and the Bishops of the several dioceses in Ireland, either to unite or dissolve parishes, when either may be deemed advisable; and the Archbishops and Bishops are enabled by act of Parliament, to form a district (part of a large parish into a separate parish,) under the title of a perpetual curacy, by which means several large parishes in Ireland have been actually divided into two or more separate and distinct parishes.

Query 3d.—The Board of First Fruits can augment such livings, by purchasing glebes and impropriate tithes out of the proceeds of the First Fruits and Twentieth Parts granted for that purpose by Queen Anne, and by uniting the incumbents of them with money for the erection of glebe-houses; but this fund is small and unequal to the effectual augmentation of such livings. There is also another fund, arising from a charitable bequest of the late Dr. Butler,

Union of Ardferan.—This union on the death of the late incumbent (which took place a few months since) has been dissolved. The present incumbent holds the vicarages of Ardferan, Rochestown, and the vicarage of Noddans, which was united by act of council in 1813. The rectory of Mullinstown and the vicarage of Newcastle, now form two distinct benefices.

Cleons and Newtownham.—These parishes being seven miles distant from each other, should be dissolved.

Seelingsh.—The rectory and vicarage ought to be perpetually united.

Killynary and Carrick.—Should be perpetually united.

Shanahan.—Glebe land should be purchased contiguous to the new church now building.

Derrygath.—Rectory and vicarage should be perpetually united; a glebe-house should be built on the present glebe land.

Clashmore.—The present vicar has lately been collated to the prebend, in order to make the living of sufficient value to enable the incumbent to reside. The new church will be finished in the course of a few weeks.

Ardnore and Ringness, &c.—Ringness should be separated from Ardnore and perpetually united to Dungarvan.

R. Waterford.

Primate of Ireland, and vested in the Board of First Fruits by act of Parliament, out of which fund the Board of First Fruits is enabled to augment livings, under one hundred pounds a year, by adding so much salary yearly to the incumbents of such livings, as will make their annual incomes one hundred pounds.

No. 5.—I consider the laws now in force, are sufficient for enforcing the residence of the clergy in Ireland.

No. 6.—I apprehend that the laws now in being form the best mode of applying such funds as are now applicable to the purpose of building or repairing churches or glebe-houses, or the improvement of glebes.

No. 7.—The laws now in being, I conceive, are fully adequate to prevent synodical unions being improperly made.

No. 8.—I am of opinion that the due execution of the laws now in existence, together with such grants as His Majesty and the Parliament may think proper to make for augmenting the income of poor livings, purchasing glebes, and assisting the building of churches and glebe-houses, will be sufficient for the improvement, protection and support of the established church in Ireland.

R. Waterford.

RECAPITULATION AND SUMMARY:

IN THE DIOCESE OF WATERFORD are eleven Benefices with cure of souls, on which are ten Churches built or building; on five there are no Churches. The number of Parishes is twenty-nine; of the eleven Benefices, eight are Unions. There are four Glebe-houses built or building; seven Benefices without Glebe-houses, of which three have no glebe, or none on which a house could be built with advantage. The Clergy are all resident on their Benefices, or so near as to perform the duty of them. There is also a Church for French Protestants, the Chaplain of which resides, and is paid by the Government, but has no house.

INCUMBENTS. Whether having cure of souls; whether resident, if non-resident, for what cause, and by whom the duties are discharged.	BENEFICES. When united; and by what authority.
1.	1.	The Deanery of Cloyne: the corps of which is, The parish of Pharrish - a rectory estate It is about 25 miles from the cathedral of Cloyne. The extent from north to south 5 miles, from east to west 2.	The rev. Alexander Arbuthnot; has cure of souls; resides at his living in the diocese of Team; the duties are performed by his curate, the rev. Tho ^s Townsend.	No union.
2.	1. 2. 3. 4.	The Clarendon: the corps of which consists of Lisgoold - vicarage - - - Ballyvaughy, rectory - - - Ballyvaughy, rectory & vicarage Kilbricken - $\frac{1}{2}$ of rect. vic. and see N ^o 44 - - - Imbrick - rectory & vicarage - The two first of these parishes are contiguous, the others are in detached parts of the diocese; Ballyvaughy, about 5 miles to the south, and Imbrick at least 15 to the north-west from Lisgoold; extent of Lisgoold and Ballyvaughy is 6 miles east to west, and 3 miles north to south.	The rev. Francis Atterbury, doctor of divinity; he has cure of souls, but resides in his other parish at Clarendon; the duties are performed by the rev. Mr. Pratt.	United from time immemorial, to form the body of the diocese. This union comes under the provisions of the stat. 11 Geo. 2d.
3.	1. 2.	The Union of Clarendon: consists of Clarendon - rectory - - - Temple Bavin - rectory & vicarage both contiguous. Extent is 5 miles north to south, and 2 east to west.	The rev. Francis Atterbury; has cure of souls, and resides in his glebe-house at Clarendon; and per- forms the duties, assisted by his curate, the rev. Thomas Stannard.	United for ever by act of council, at some unknown time.
4.	1. 2. 3.	The Clonsilla: the corps of which is, Clonsilla - rectory & vicarage - Rogercath - vicarage - - - Templemore - rectory entire - Aghacross - - - Ballyvaughy - rectory - - - Vicarage endowed, see N ^o 31. or portion of others in These parishes are scattered about the diocese at 5, 7, or 10 miles from each other. The denomination of Rogercath is not known, it is supposed to be the same as the vicarage of Kilbrin; see N ^o 74.	Rev. John Bennett; has cure of souls; resides (there being no resi- dence for a clergyman in the union itself) near Cork, being very lately appointed, but in treaty for a house near his parish of Clonsilla.	United from the ear- liest times, and cannot be dissolved without an act of parliament, by the 21 of Geo. the 3d.
5.	1. 2. 3. 4. 5.	The Tramore: the corps of which consists of Templemore - rectory - - - Carrick, or Middleton - rectory & vicarage Mogony - rectory & vicarage Kilbricken - rectory & vicarage Ballyvaughy - vicarage - - - All these parishes are contiguous; the extent 12 miles north to south, by 6 east to west.	Rev. Robert Austin; has cure of souls; resides in his glebe house at Middleton, and performs the duty himself, assisted by a resident cu- rate, the rev. W ^m Greene.	United long ago by act of council.
6.	1. 2.	The Arklow: the corps of which is, Arklow - rectory & vicarage - Donart - rectory & vicarage - These parishes are contiguous; their extent is 4 miles north and south by 3 miles east and west.	Rev. Zach. Cooke Collins, resides; the duties are performed by his curate, the rev. John Ross.	From the earliest time, and probably un- der the authority then competent; this union comes under the provi- sions of 31 Geo. 3d.

DIOCESE OF CLOYNE.

5. No. of CHURCHES; Whether in repair, and in which parishes they stand.	6. GLEBE-HOUSES, In what parish; what Glebe Lands, Whether contiguous, or how far removed from each other, or from the Church, or site of old Church.	7. CURATES SALARIES, In cases of parishes non- residence of the Incumbents; and whether resident or not.	8. LIVINGS Of a value too small to afford concord to the Incumbents.
One church, in repair, at Pharsbury.	A new glebe-house at Pharsbury, with 24 acres of glebe; and a small glebe at Cloyne, left for building at s ^t . per ann.	Curate's salary is 50 l .
One church, in repair, lately built at Lingoold.	No glebe-house; small glebe at Cloyne; 7 acres at Ballinacorney, in two separate portions, and not far from the old church; 2 at Ballyna- may; and Imphrick, 3 roods; none of them contiguous, or near the church of Lingoold.	Curate's salary at 60 l , he resides in the adjoining parish.	None of these livings, taken separately, can af- ford concord to an in- cumbent, except per- haps Ballinacorney, which might produce 100 l . per ann. and yet leave enough to support the charac- ter of the 4 other parishes; it has also a glebe, and might have a church.
One church, lately built at Carr.	A good glebe-house at Clonmel, with 20 acres of glebe, and 3 in Temple Robin, near the old church.	Curate's salary 50 l . he resides in the parish.	Temple Robin might be separated from Clon- mel, and each would pro- vide maintenance for an incumbent; but the union being by act of council, it is not in the bishop's power to dissolve it by his own authority.
A church at Clonere, lately built.	No glebe-house; a small glebe at Cloyne of 5 roods, and a glebe of 6 acres at Clonmel, not far from the site of the old church.	Rev. J ^r . Bagwell Cough; resides in a neighbouring parish.	None of this living, taken separately, would maintain an incumbent, except Clonere.
One church, in repair, at Middleton.	Glebe-house at Middleton; glebes at Middleton - - 14 acres, Templeacorney 24 d ^s Ballinacorney - 5 d ^s Churchtown - 3 roods; these glebes are not contiguous, but are distant 2 or 3 miles from each other, being all near their churches, except Ballinacorney.	Curate's salary 75 l . resides in the parish. Geo. 2d, ch. 8; but if it was possible, it would be a benefit to the church to di- vide this great union into two parishes at some future time.	The union being the corps of a dignity, the bishop is forbidden to di- minish its value, by 22 Geo. 2d, ch. 8; but if it was possible, it would be a benefit to the church to di- vide this great union into two parishes at some future time.
One church, in repair, at Carron.	No glebe-house; a small glebe at Cloyne; 6 acres at Carron.	Curate's salary 50 l . resides in the parish.	Gartree, Donnet.

RECAPITULATION AND SUMMARY.

IN THE DIOCESE OF CLOYNE are seventy-seven Benefices having cure of souls, six of which are fifty-nine Churches built or building; on twenty there are no Churches. The number of Parishes is one hundred and twenty-three; of the above seventy-seven Benefices, twenty-seven are Unions. There are twenty-two Glebe-houses built or building; fifty-five Benefices are without Glebe-houses; on thirty-three of which there is no Glebe, or none on which an house could be built with advantage.

Of the Beneficed Clergy, forty-six are resident on their Benefices, or so near as to perform the duties of them. Fifteen are resident on other Benefices, which they hold by Family.

RECAPITULATION AND SUMMARY.

Of those who are absent, one is exempt as Vice General, under the provisions of the stat. 48 Geo. 3, ch. 66; one is lately collated, and having no glebe-house, has been unable as yet to procure a residence; two are permitted on account of illness; three on account of the smallness of income. It is further to be remarked, that the Prebends in the Cathedral of Cloyne are many of them to be considered rather as offices of distinction than Benefices of emolument. The Parishes which are respectively the corps of such, are very small in extent, and afford very inconsiderable income. They are usually held by the Clergy of the Diocese, who derive income from other Benefices.

INCUMBENTS, Whether having more of souls; whether resident; if non-resident, for what cause, and by whom the duties are discharged.	5. BENEFICES, When called, and by what authority.
1.		Deanery of Limerick: To which belong as the corps thereof, St. Mary's - - - entire rectory - - } St. Nicholas - - - rec. & vicarage - - } Cappa - - - - - rec. & vicarage - - } St. Mary's and St. Nicholas lie in and about the old city; Cappa about 8 miles from thence. Calvary rectory - - a perpetual curacy, see N^o 35. Burre rectory - - a vicar, endowed, see N^o 17. Maugret rectory - - a vicar, endowed, see N^o 45.	Rev. A. J. Prentiss; has care of souls; performs the duties, assisted by a curate, an assistant preacher, and a reader.	At a period prior to any existing record, probably at the first in- stitution of the deanery, by such authority as was then competent.
2.		Precentorship: To which belong as the corps thereof, Kilfinny - - - rec. & vicarage - - } Longhill - - - - - d^o - - - - - } Morgans - - - vicarage - - - - - } These lie near each other; the estimated extent last small. Margate is only a small parable, containing but very few acres. Nantemo - - - entire rectory - - perpetual curacy, see N^o 33. Shanagolden - rectory - - - vicar endowed, see N^o 46. Knockragall - rectory - - - vicar endowed, see N^o 7. Droichead - - rectory - - - vicar endowed, see N^o 49.	Rev. John Warburton; has a re- sidential house attached by law to the cathedral, and attends the duties.	At a period prior to any existing record.
3.		The Chancellorship: To which belong as the corps thereof, Rathkinal - rectory - - - - - } Kilcassell - - - rec. & vicarage - - } Clonough - - - d^o - - - - - } Clonsilla - - - d^o - - - - - } To which has been settled time out of mind, the Rectory of Dundonnell, which is contiguous and convenient to the church of Rathkinal.	Rev. Clew Warburton; has care of souls; resides in the glebe-house; and performs the duties, assisted by a licensed curate.	Prior to any existing record.
4.		The Treasurership: To which belong as the corps, St. Patrick's - rectory - - - - - } Cahirilly - - - d^o - - - - - } Encligmas - - - rec. & vicarage - - } Not contiguous; N^o 1 lies close to the city, divided by the river Shannon; N^o 2, 4 miles off; N^o 3, 7 miles; the duties of which attended by curate of adjacent parish.	Rev. Theobald Quinn; has care of souls; does not reside; having as yet no glebe-house, but one is about being procured.	Prior to any existing record.
5.		The Archdeaconry: To which belong as corps, St. Michael's - - rectory - - - - - } Ardagh - - - - - d^o - - - - - } Not contiguous; N^o 1 lies in and contains the whole of the new part of the city of Limerick. There is no parish church, the original one having been in ruins for more than a century, the ancient site is so incon- venient to the great body of parishioners, that erecting a church upon it would not be pro- ductive of any advantage to them; in addition to which, the church-yard is so covered with graves, that a church could not be built on any part of it, without disturbing the ashes of the dead, and thereby giving offence to their surviving connections. Every endeavour has been used to procure another site within the parish of St. Michael, but hitherto without success; the proprietor of the grounds, on which the new town is built, not consenting to grant a site for that purpose.	Rev. Wm. Wray Munnell; has care of souls; resides in St. Mi- chael's parish; performs the duties himself, and also attends the catho- dral duties.	Prior to any existing record.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS.

*Containing Answers to Query 1st, sec. 6, and Queries 3d, 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th.

The others being answered in the columns.

Query 1st, sec. 6.—THERE is by Act of Parliament sufficient power lodged in the Lord Lieutenant and Privy Council, and the Bishops of Ireland, either to unite or disunite parishes, when either may be deemed advisable; the Archbishops and Bishops are enabled by Act of Parliament to form a district (part of a large parish) into a separate parish, under the title of a perpetual curacy; by which means, several large parishes in Ireland, have been apportionally divided into two or more separate and distinct parishes.

There is also a power of establishing perpetual curacies in dignities, which has been exercised within this united diocese.

Query 3d.—The Board of First Fruits can augment such Livings, by purchasing Glebes and impropriate Tithes, out of the produce of the First Fruits and twelfth parts, granted for that purpose by Queen Anne; and by assisting the incumbents of them with money for the erection of Glebe-houses; but this fund is small, and unequal to the effectual augmentation of such livings.

There is also another fund, arising from a charitable bequest of Primate Boulter, and vested in the Board of First Fruits, by Act of Parliament; out of which the Board is enabled to augment Livings under one hundred pounds a year, by adding so much salary yearly to the incumbents as will make their income one hundred pounds.

There is at present no other mode of improving these small Livings; but those funds may be increased by the bounty of the King in Parliament, so as to render them capable of affording the means of comfort to resident incumbents of such small Livings.

N^o 5.—It is apprehended by the Bishops of Ireland, that the present canon law (as hitherto executed here) is sufficient to remedy the evil of non-residence; and I am happy to observe that since the last Report to Parliament in 1860, the evil of non-residence in this diocese has not only been lessened out in a very great measure done away.

N^o 6.—I apprehend that the laws already in being establish the best mode of applying such funds as are now applicable for the purpose of building or repairing Churches or Glebe-houses, and the improvement of Glebes.

N^o 7.—The laws now in being are, I apprehend, fully sufficient to prevent unions (parish or episcopal) from being improperly made, and to preserve Churches and Glebe-houses from dissipation, when duly enforced.

N^o 8.—I am of opinion that the due execution of the now existing laws (with the aid of such grants as His Majesty and the Parliament may in their bounty make for augmenting the incomes of poor Livings, purchasing Glebes, and assisting the building of Churches and Glebe-houses) will be sufficient for the present improvement, protection and support of the Established Church in Ireland.

RECAPITULATION AND SUMMARY:

IN THE DIOCESE OF LIMERICK are fifty-four Benefices, with care of souls, on which are thirty-six Churches; on eighteen of which there are no Churches. The number of Parishes is eighty; of the above fifty-four Benefices, nineteen are Unions. There are twenty-two Glebe-houses built or building, thirty-two Benefices without Glebe-houses, twenty-five of which have no Glebes, or none on which an House could be erected with advantage. Of the beneficed Clergy, thirty-six are resident, or so near as to perform the duties of their respective Benefices. Five are resident on other Benefices, which they hold by faculty; three are exempt, under provision of statute 48 Geo. 3d; one is resident preacher at the Cathedral, one absent, by permission, from ill health; two serving Cures in other Parishes, their own being insufficient for the decent support of either Church or Minister.

Diocese of Ardert - - - - One Living vacant.

Several Glebes are still wanting, but existing difficulties have (as yet) rendered it impossible to obtain them.

Chas. Loneran, Ardfer, and Aghadee.

N. B.—Of the 155 Parishes in this united Diocese, 40 are inadequate to the decent support of either Church or Minister. These are generally held by deserving Curates of other Parishes, whose comforts are thereby somewhat increased.

AN ACCOUNT OF CHURCHES AND GLEBE-HOUSES

RECAPITULATION AND SUMMARY:

IN THE DIOCESE OF LEIGHLIN are forty-seven Benefices having care of souls, on which are forty-five Churches, built or building; on four there are no Churches. The number of the Parishes is eighty; of the above forty-seven Benefices, twenty are Unions. There are sixteen Glebe-houses built or building; thirty-two Benefices have no Glebe-houses, on twenty-six of which there are no Glebes, or none on which a house can be built with advantage.

Of the Beneficed Clergy, forty are resident on their Benefices, or so near as to perform the duty of them. Four are resident on other Benefices, which they hold by Faculty. One is absent from pecuniary embarrassments; one on account of the smallness of income, and being the incumbent of a parish of very small extent, close to the Cathedral. One Benefice is vacant.

IN THE DIOCESE OF FERNS are forty-five Benefices having care of souls, on which are fifty Churches, built or building; on two Benefices are no Churches. The number of Parishes is one hundred and two; of the above forty-five Benefices, twenty-five are Unions. There are twenty-three Glebe-houses.

RECAPITULATION AND SUMMARY.

Glebe-house built or building; twenty-two Benefices have as Glebe-houses, on two of which there are no glebes, or none on which a house could be built with advantage.

Of the Beneficed Clergy, thirty-four are resident on their Benefices, or so near as to perform the duties of them. Six are resident on other Benefices, which they hold by Faculty. Of those who are absent, two are permitted on account of bad health and age; two have lately ceased; and one on account of smallness of the District, and income arising out of it.

Besides the Parishes above enumerated in the two Dioceses, there are forty-three, the tithes of which are enjoyed by Lay Impropriators; the income allowed in consideration of religious duties, is not sufficient to furnish the common necessaries of life. Hence it has been made necessary for the Bishop to unite these impropriate Cures with Benefices adjoining, which furnish an income for the support of an Incumbent, in order that there may be a licensed clergyman, on whom the inhabitants in such Curacies, may in such case call for the performance of religious duties.

1. No. of BENEFICES.	2. No. of DENOMINATIONS.	3. NAMES OF BENEFICES AND DENOMINATIONS, Number of Parishes in each Benefice, Their distance from each other, and the estimated extent of each as are contiguous	4. INCUMBENTS; Whether having cure of souls; whether resident, if non resident, for what cause, and by whom the duties are discharged.	5. BENEFICES; Where united, and by what authority.
1.	1.	Fartagh - - - rectory and vicarage Rathlogan was heretofore set down as a separate parish, it appears on inquiry to be but a sub-denomination of the parish of Fartagh. This parish extends about two miles from north to south, and about one mile and a quarter from east to west.	Rev. William Gregory, rector and vicar; has cure of souls in all parts of his benefice; is resident and discharges the duties thereof.
2.	8.	Agbor Union Consisting of the parished or prebendal church of Agbor, the rectories and vicarages of Clonsilla and Kilrush, the rectories of Clonsilla and Rathbua, and the vicarages of Tullibredaun, Shells, Clonsilla, Cuckashin, Ballylarkin, and Ballysena, all in the county of Kilkenny. They are contiguous to each other; the estimated extent of each is from one mile and less to one mile and a half, the extent of the entire union from north to south is about seven miles, from east to west about eight miles. A considerable portion of this union is mountainous, and very thinly inhabited. Full Observations at the end of the Report.	Rev. James Meers, rector and vicar; the same, prebendary; has cure of souls in all parts of his benefice; resides in the glebe-house thereof; and with the assistance of a resident curate discharges the duties.	The rectories and vicarages of Clonsilla and Kilrush, the rectories of Clonsilla and Rathbua, and the vicarages of Tullibredaun, have been united for three immemorial, but when or by what authority cannot state; as the records of the diocese do not afford any information on the subject. In the year 1729 the other rectories and vicarages, together with the prebend of Agbor, were episcopally united to the former.
3.	4.	Union of Attineagh Consisting of the vicarages Attineagh and Ahamey, the rectory and vicarage of Kilmann, and the rectory of Rosconell. The parishes are all contiguous to each other, the most remote part of the union is about three miles from the church, the greatest extent of the whole benefice is about five miles.	Rev. Thomas H. Keeney, rector and vicar; has cure of souls in all parts of the benefice; resides in the glebe-house thereof, and discharges the duties.	The vicarages of Attineagh and Ahamey, and the rectory and vicarage of Kilmann, have been united by act of council; the rectory of Rosconell was united thereto by act of council in the year 1848.
4.	1.	Uringford - - - rectory and vicarage Part of the county of the deanery. The extent of this parish from east to west is about three quarters of a mile, and from north to south about one mile.	Hon. and rev. Joseph Bourke, dean of Ossory, rector and vicar; resides in the deanery-house in the city of Kilkenny. The occasional duties are discharged by the neighbouring clergyman; the parish is very small.
5.	1.	Sackryon - - - vicarage - - This parish is about two miles and a half in length from north to south, and about two miles in breadth from east to west.	Rev. Thomas Jackson, vicar; has cure of souls in all parts of the benefice; and is resident in the glebe-house, and discharges the duties of the parish.
6.	1.	Agbave - - - vicarage - - This benefice is eight miles in length, and three miles in breadth. A very considerable part of this parish is boggy unimproved land.	Rev. Thomas Carr, vicar; has cure of souls in all parts of the benefice; not resident, being under arrest for debt; the duties are discharged by a resident curate.

DIOCESE OF OSSORY.

1. CHURCHES. Whether in repair, and in what position they stand.	2. GLEN-HOUSES. In what parish; what Glebe Land; Whether contiguous, or how far removed from each other, or from the Church, or site of old Church.	3. CURETES SALARIES. In cases of permanent non- residence of the Incumbent; and whether resident or not.	4. LIVINGS. Of a value too small to afford confort to the Incumbent.
One church, in the parish, in very good repair.	No glebe-house in the parish, neither is there any glebe-land.	—	—
One church, in the union, situate in the parish of Aghour, which is in good repair.	There is a glebe-house in the union, in the parish of Clonacree; there are 6s acres of glebe, situate in sundry places; none of the de- nomination are contiguous to each other or the church, with the exception of 1 acre, and they are distant from each other from one to two miles.	One curate, who is resident.	Some of the parishes are too small to afford confort to the incum- bents, and a consider- able encroachment is de- rived from a lease of tithes held under the don and chapter, who are the inappropriate recipients of some of the parishes in the union.
One church, in the union, situated in the parish of Attanagh, in excellent repair.	A glebe-house, in the parish of Attanagh, standing on a glebe of 40 acres, all within one fence, and upon which the church also stands. There is another glebe in the parish of Ros- connell, containing 100 acres, all contiguous, and distant from the church about one mile.	—	These parishes, if se- parated, would not af- ford confort to resident incumbents.
No church: the church in the parish of Farragh is in the im- mediate vicinity of this parish.	No glebe.	One curate for the occasional duties, whose salary is 104. per ann.	Too small to afford confort to a resident incumbent.
One church, in the parish, in good repair.	A glebe-house, in the parish, in good repair. A glebe of 10 acres, all contiguous.	—	—
A new church, in the parish, lately built.	A new glebe-house. A glebe of 184s. 3r. 10p. in sundry places, two miles distant from each other, and from the church about one mile.	There is a resident curate in the parish, at a salary of 75 l. per ann.	—

INCUMBENTS; Whether having cure of souls; whether resident, if non-resident, for what cause, and by whom the duties are discharged.	5. REFERENCES. When/Where/Used by what authority.
7.	1.	Oberlin - rectory & vicarage. The parish extends about 7 miles in length from north to south, and the same in breadth from east to west; it comprehends an extensive range of the blue-bloss mountains, stretching from east to west about 7 miles in length, and about 1 mile in breadth, consequently the greater proportion of the land in this extent is too rugged and barren to admit of cultivation or habitation.	Honourable and rev. Joseph Bourke, vicar; has cure of souls in all parts of the benefice, is not constantly resident, being dean of Ossory, he resides in the deanery house in the city of Kilkenny. The duties are discharged by a resident curate. The dean visits this parish several times in the course of the year.
8.	1.	Skirke - - - - vicarage. This parish extends about three miles from north to south, and about two miles from east to west.	Rev. Alexander Staple, vicar; has cure of souls in all parts of his benefice, is not resident in the parish, but is in the immediate vicinity, and discharges the duties thereof; he could not procure a residence in the parish.
9.	1.	Donsoghmore - rect. & vicarage. This parish is about one mile and a half in length, and three quarters of a mile in breadth, lies altogether. Kilfear Union:	Rev. John Leary, rector and vicar, has cure of souls in all parts of the benefice; he is resident in the glebe-house, and with the assistance of a resident curate, discharges the duties.
10.	3.	Consisting of the rectory of Edinane and the vicarage of Tullibarnagh and Blackwillstown, being the corps of the archdiocese of Ossory. The parishes are contiguous; the benefice is two miles and a half in length, and averages one in breadth; in this union there are between four and five hundred acres of waste land.	Rev. Paul Hibernia, archdeacon of Ossory, rector and vicar; has cure of souls in all parts of his benefice; is resident in the glebe-house, and, with the assistance of a resident curate, discharges the duties.	United by act of council, in the year 1676.
11.	1.	Dungarvan - - - vicarage. This parish is about two miles in length from north to south, and about two miles and a half in breadth from east to west. Thomastown Union:	Rev. Peter Roe, vicar; has cure of souls in all parts of the benefice; is not resident, having another benefice, whereon he resides, in the city of Kilkenny. The duties are discharged by a resident curate.
12.	3.	consisting of the rectories and vicarages of Thomastown, Collumkill, and Farnagh church. They all lie contiguous; the benefice is about one mile and three quarters in length, and half a mile in breadth.	Rev. Alexander Hamilton, rector and vicar; has cure of souls in all parts of the benefice, he is resident in the glebe-house, and discharges the duties.	Thomastown and Collumkill were united by act of council, in the year 1803.
13.	1.	Jerpoint - - - vicarage. This parish extends about one mile and a half from north to south, and about two miles from east to west.	Rev. Math. Crowley, vicar; has cure of souls in all parts of the parish; is not resident, the parish being very small, and in the immediate vicinity of two churches, to one of which it is contiguous; the bishop has dispensed with his residence. The occasional duties are discharged by the neighbouring clergymen.

5. No. of CHURCHES; Whether an episcop., and in which parishes they stand	6. GLEBE-HOUSES, In what parish; what Glebe Lands; Whether contiguous, or how far removed from each other, or from the Church, or the old Church	7. CURATES SALARIES, In view of permitted non- residence of the Incumbent; and whether resident or not.	8. LIVINGS Of a residence suitable and convenient to the Incumbent.
One church in the parish, in excellent repair.	A glebe of 252 acres, whereof upwards of 50 acres are boggy, unprofitable land; the building of a glebe-house was commenced by the present incumbent's predecessor, who died, leaving the same in an unfinished state, in which condition it is likely the buildings must remain, as, from the insubstantiality of the site and other local circumstances attending the buildings, the doctor could not certify the same as a fit, convenient and eligible residence for the incumbent and his successors.—Fide observations at the end of the report.	There is a curate, whose salary is 50 l. per annum; he is resident in the parish.	—
One church in the parish, in good repair.	There is a glebe of 190 acres; a glebe-house was commenced, but not near finished, by the predecessor of the present incumbent, who declines finishing the same, in consequence of the misapplication of the greater part of the money granted by the commissioners of First Fruits to his predecessor, who died insolvent.	—	—
One church in the parish, in tolerable good repair.	A glebe-house in the parish; a glebe, consisting of about 293 acres; all contiguous, and within about a quarter of a mile of the church.	A curate, resident in the parish.	—
One church in the union, in the parish of Killane, in good repair.	A glebe-house in the parish of Killane; a glebe of 46 a. & 3 r.; all contiguous, and within less than a quarter of a mile of the church.	A curate, resident in the parish.	These parishes, if separated, would not afford comfort to resident incumbents.
One church in the parish, in excellent repair.	A glebe-house in the parish; a glebe of 15 acres, not contiguous; there are ten acres in one place and five in another, about a quarter of a mile between them; the ten acres are near the church.	A curate, resident in the glebe-house, at a salary of 75 l. per ann.	—
One church in the union, in the parish of Thomastown; it is new and in most excellent order.	A glebe-house in the parish of Thomastown; a glebe, consisting of about 18 acres; about half a mile smaller, and distant from the church about a quarter of a mile.	—	These parishes, if separated, would not afford comfort to the incumbents.
No church.	No glebe-house; there is a glebe of 5 a. 3 r. 15 p.	No curate.	Too small to afford comfort to a resident incumbent.

14.	8.	Knocktopher Union Consisting of the rectories and vicarages of Knocktopher, Kilsaddy, Agbaville, Kiltoran, Derrishenny, Kiltoril, Killyny and Donmagra. The parishes are all contiguous; the estimated extent of the union is about ten miles from east to west, and six miles from north to south. There are about 3,000 acres of unimproved barren land in this parish.	Rev. Hans Hamilton, rector and vicar; has cure of souls in all parts of the benefice; is resident in the glebe-house, and, assisted by his curate, discharges the duties.	United by act of council, in the year 1670.
15.	1.	Kilmagory - perpetual curacy -	Rev. Henry King, perpetual curate; has cure of souls in all parts of the parish; is at present resident in the parish of Knocktopher, until the glebe-house, which is now building, shall be finished.	—
16.	2.	Kilbrannagh - - - prebend - - This parish extends about four miles from north to south, and about three miles from east to west.	Rev. Hans Caulfield, prebendary; the incumbent has cure of souls in all parts of the benefice; is resident in the glebe-house, and discharges the duties.	—
17.	5.	Union of Fiddlers Consisting of the rectories of Fiddown, Bewly, and Tulbridd, the rectories and vicarages of Carrilane and Tipperaghney. They all lie contiguous to each other; the extent of the union from east to west is about five miles, and from north to south about four miles, or nearly so. There are about 4,000 acres of unimproved barren land in this union.	Rev. Joseph Sandys, rector and vicar; the incumbent has cure of souls in all parts of the benefice; is resident in the glebe-house, and discharges the duties.	United by act of council, in the year 1689.

CURATES SALARIES, In cases of presented non- residence of the Incumbent, and whether resident or not	8. LIVINGS Of a value too small to afford comfort to the Incumbent.
There is a church in the union, in the parish of Knocktopher, in very good repair.	There is a glebe-house in the parish of Knocktopher, and about 400 a. 3 r. 17 p. of glebe, situated in sandy places; whereof 10 acres adjoin the glebe-house, and 15 acres about one mile distant therefrom; and about 6 acres and 3 roods near Knocktopher.	—	All the parishes in this union, with the exception of Knocktopher, are too small to afford comfort to the incumbents.
There is a church in the parish, in excellent order and repair.	A glebe-house building. A glebe of 5 acres, all contiguous.	—	—
There is one church in the parish, in good repair.	There is a glebe-house in the parish. There are 200 a. 3 r. 18 p. lying together, and contiguous to the church.	—	—
There is one church in the union, in the parish of Fiddown, in good repair.	There is a new glebe-house in the union, in the parish of Fiddown. There is a glebe of 48 a. & 2 r. not contiguous. Fiddown glebe 13 a. & 3 r.; Owing glebe, 30 acres; Tullbrin glebe, 3 acres, Corleaghan glebe, 1 a. & 2 r. Owing glebe is three miles, Tullbrin glebe about two miles, and Corleaghan glebe about one mile from Fiddown glebe, on which the house and church stand. The glebes of Owing and Tullbrin are close to the ruins of their respective churches; and that of Corleaghan distant about a mile from Fiddown church.	—	—
There is a new church in the parish, in excellent repair.	No glebe in the parish, the present incumbent is in treaty for the purchase of a piece of land for a glebe, on which a house will immediately be commenced; money having been granted for the purpose by the Board of First Fruits.	—	—
There is a church in the parish, in good repair.	No glebe land belonging to this parish.	—	—
There are two churches in the union; one in the town of Callan, and the other in the parish of Ballycallan; they are in good repair.	No glebe-house. OBSERVATIONS.

N^o 2.—ALTHOUGH the denominations of Kilrush, Ballylarkin, and Closterbrid in this union, have been heretofore set down and numbered as parishes, they are not so, being townlands, and as such are returned and taken in all county proceedings; they are comprised within the individual parish of Aghor, of which they are sub-denominations. The Bishop hopes to establish a perpetual curacy, and to erect another church in this union.

6.—A new church and a new glebe-house have been erected in this parish, since the promotion of the present diocesan.

7.—The state of the glebe-house in this parish is particularly deterring, both to the diocesan and the incumbent. The building was commenced by his predecessor, by order of the present diocesan, who obtained from the Board of First Fruits the usual aid for that purpose, and shortly after died, leaving the same in an unfinished state. The present incumbent, on his promotion to the see, finding that the site chosen for the glebe-house was a perfect bog or morass, and that the materials used therein was in part highly objectionable, judged it advisable to take the opinion of a civilian, as to the best mode of proceeding; who advised, that the Bishop should issue a commission to inquire into the particulars, and more especially to inquire into and inspect the situation of the ground, and the fitness and convenience of the buildings, and whether it would be proper to finish and complete the same. The commission having been issued, the Commissioners, after inspection and examination of the premises, reported the state and condition thereof, in the terms following: "That the said house and offices, if finished, could not be deemed a permanent and eligible residence for the said incumbent and his successors; as, from the contiguity of the buildings to a rent rapid river, which runs with great force and violence against the ground upon which the same are erected, and from the circumstance of a very considerable portion of the ground having been carried away by the said river within the last three years, the said buildings could not be deemed secure and permanent." Council has advised the incumbent not to finish the buildings, because the Bishop could not certify them; and that even if he were to do so, such certificate would not be binding on his successors.

8.—The glebe-house was commenced in consequence of the order of the present diocesan.

12.—A new church has been erected in this parish, since the promotion of the present diocesan.

13.—This incumbent is serving a cure in another diocese.

15.—A grant has been lately obtained from the Board of First Fruits, for a glebe-house in this parish, the building of which is in considerable progress.

17.—A glebe-house has been erected in this parish, since the promotion of the present diocesan.

18.—A new church has been erected in this parish, since the promotion of the present diocesan. The incumbent has agreed for the purchase of a piece of land for a glebe, upon which it is intended to build a glebe-house, money having been granted for the purpose.

21.—The incumbent is at present serving a cure in the diocese, to which he has been licensed about twenty years, but he will shortly reside. A new glebe-house erected since the promotion of the present diocesan.

23.—In the former Returns, all the denominations comprised in this union were set down as parishes, and are so denominated in the Act of Council. With respect to the incumbents' titles, and the visitation books, after very minute inquiry, and from the best information the diocesan could obtain, it appears that Kilbarn, Sheestown, Jorpoint, Bawn, Blackrath, Garvan, and Grangemockstown are nothing more than townlands, comprised within the union, and that those denominations only which are numbered as parishes, are all that are really so; as out of the above-named townlands the incumbent has not any emolument, and by whom, even the situation of them, cannot be traced. The diocesan is not aware how this union can be dissolved, for it is united by Act of Council, and the entire benefice is chargeable with the sum of two thousand five hundred and ten pounds seven shillings and eight pence on account of the glebe-house.

32.—A new church erected since the promotion of the present bishop.

33.—The incumbent being in embarrassed circumstances, and his parish under sequestration by his creditors, the diocesan did not deem it advisable to compel him to build a glebe-house at present.

34.—A new glebe-house erected since the promotion of the present diocesan.

35.—A new church and a new glebe-house erected in the parish since the promotion of the present diocesan.

36.—A new church and glebe-house erected since the promotion of the present diocesan.

37.—The house is very old, and built with very bad materials.

38.—A very considerable portion of this man is barren mountain, and thereby unproductive.

39.—This parish is vested in the Dean and Chapter and Vicars Choral of St. Canice, both ecclesiastical corporations, consequently there can be no residence.

40.—If these parishes were united by Act of Council, land might be obtained in the baronies, on which a glebe-house might be built; but none of the parishes produce sufficient income to build a proper house for the incumbent. The diocesan hopes to build a new church in this parish.

41.—A new glebe-house has been erected in this parish, since the promotion of the present diocesan.

42.—The church has been considerably enlarged, and a new glebe-house built since the promotion of the present diocesan.

43.—The rector resides three or four months in the year, he is surrogate of the diocese of Loughlin. The church has been considerably enlarged since the promotion of the present diocesan.

44.—A new church and a new glebe-house have been erected in this parish, since the promotion of the present diocesan.

45.—A new church has been erected in this parish, since the promotion of the present diocesan.

46.—The church has undergone considerable improvements within the last year, a grant having been obtained from the Board of First Fruits, for the repairs thereof, and for the purpose of erecting a tower and spire, the building of which is far advanced. A house situate in the city of Kilkenny, has been purchased for a glebe-house, since the promotion of the present diocesan.

47.—Kilkenny was heretofore set down and numbered as a parish, united to Rathcool; on inquiry, however, it is nothing more than a townland in the parish of Rathcool, and is so rated in all county assessments.
